New York socialite and popular hostess in the resort, whose villa on Ocean Ridge, Boynton, has been the scene of many distinctive dinner parties.

On Sunny Palm Beach Sands

AS THE SEASON MERRILY PROGRESSES, the beaches continue to be popular spots to individually or collectively acquire suntans, play backgammon and generally enjoy the blessings of Palm Beaches' famous sun and surf. The Bath and Tennis Club has one of the finest beaches on the island, with an unequalled vista of the ocean from its terraces. An important part of the Club's social life revolves around the gay cabanas.

The outdoor swimming pool is rivaled only by the ocean and tennis in the outdoor sports. Getting luncheon in the downstairs cafeteria and eating on the beach or in the cabanas is a particularly enjoyable way of acquiring a tan in the noonday sun.

Recently included in the Bath and Tennis Club's weekly schedule of activities are the backgammon tournaments held Saturday afternoons on the beach in favorable weather. Prominent members of the country's society can be found on all kinds of days skirting the shores in search of the many species of shells found on Southern beaches. Several of these Palm Beachers have become authorities on the subject, and have accumulated interesting collections of shells.

Recently noted in the dining room, patio and beach were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sidney with their house guests, Archduke and Archduchess Franz Josef, members of the duPont family, Mr. and Mrs. Lammot duPont, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre duPont, III, and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas R. duPont, Mr. and Mrs. J. Leonard Replogle, Mrs. Natalie Van Vleck and her daughter, Miss Nancy Van Vleck, Mrs. Dorothy Leary, Sir George and Lady Bettsworth Piggott, Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bennett, Mrs. Irving Hall Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. John Holiday Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan D. Bill, Miss Anne Milholland, Miss Kathleen Kennedy, Miss Anton Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Buckley Byers, Miss Joan Wyeth, Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Townsend, Jr., Lady Decies, Miss Edna Brokaw, Princess Diane Eristavi, Mrs. Richey Farrell, Mr. J. A. Peter Strassburger, Mr. Stewart McDonald, Mr. Pierre Barbey, Jr., Mr. A. V. Leaman, III, and Mr. Alexander Phillips.

Warm tropical sunshine attracts more and more members and their guests to the Breakers Cabana Club as the season reaches its peak. The ocean and pool offer refreshing variation in the suntan-achieving program and smart resorters, after lounging about the sands or at their cabanas in the sun, enjoy plunges in the ocean and pool.

Among those who have entertained at luncheon at the Breakers Cabana Club recently are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Feltman, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fawcett, Mrs. Dean Osborne, Mrs. John E. Gefaell, Mrs. Henry S. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. James Pendleton, Mr. Joseph D. Bannon and Mr. Harry Kelton.

Mr. Arthur G. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Lindley Hoffman, and Miss Elise Gioletti are recent arrivals at the Breakers who are now occupying their cabanas.

Recently noted in a group on the beach were Mr. and Mrs. William MacNeill, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Weber, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robertson. Mrs. Paul Robertson wore a smart fabric swim suit of bright red and white print.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Speno, Jr., were at their cabana with their children and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Alan Van Clief were enjoying the sun in front of their cabana. Mrs. W. H. Peters and Mrs. Emil Harms were joined by friends.

Sunning at their cabanas were Mrs. Dean Osborne, Mrs. Theodore Frohne, Mrs. Alfred Fawcett, and Mrs. William Robertson. Mrs. Osborne's long beach coat was white sharkskin beautifully tailored and her hat was a huge brimmed white straw. Mrs. Fawcett was attired in silk tailored beach pajamas of many-colored plaids. While Mrs. Robertson's suit was a full-skirted fabric of yellow and white stripes.

Noted at their cabanas were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pieper, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Giannini, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Huber. Mrs. Huber's suit was a smart white silk with hand blocked criss-cross designs in green.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hopkins were on the beach with friends. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marshall, Miss Frances Robinson, Mr. William Phillips, Mr. Alexander Philips, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Nicholson, Mrs. Kenneth Bahe, Miss Mary Tippet, Miss Henrietta Kephart in a smart red and white striped swim suit, Mr. Jack Dwyer, Miss Janet Lee, Miss Alberta Stehlein, Mrs. H. T. Asbury who wore a white pique suit edged in blue and white polka dotted material, Mr. Thomas Halton, Sr., Mr. William Wadsworth, Mr. Harry Skillman, Mr. James Fenley were among the many others noted at the Breakers Cabana Club.

One of the finest beaches under the Palm Beach sun is that of the Seaspray Beach Club—a favorite spot for winter visitors with its gay beach equipment and variety of activities. Particularly inviting on these lazy languid days is the large pool, adjoining the enclosed dining room and outdoor terrace. Members of the younger set have been particularly active in the tennis round robins that take place every Saturday afternoon.

Recently noted at the club were Mr. and Mrs. William Speed, Mrs. Fontaine LeMaistre, Mrs. Robertson Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. William Lee McKim, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest E. Mars, Miss Bernice Tillman, Miss Marian and Miss Kathleen Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic M. Sackett, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hurdman, Mr. Jack Hurdman, Mr. Robert Clarke, and Mr. David Baldwin.

The swimming pool at the Sun and Surf Club.

Swimming pool at "Lagomar," ocean front estate of Mrs. Henry R. Rea.

Gracefully spreading its magnificent limbs over the lawn outside the Everglades Club's Southeast wing and the card-room, this beautiful old banyan tree is one of the sights of the island. Viewed through the grilled loggias of the club and the arched plate glass window of the card-room, this magnificent specimen of banyan completely dominates the setting. Through its sun-dappled leaves the club has the appearance of a sequestered and peaceful monastery.

Cottage Colony Society Life

NOW THAT TRAVEL BY AIR has brought Palm Beach as close to metropolitan centers as the corner drug store, the members of the Cottage Colony in this smart resort, think nothing of flying their guests down to the races at Hialeah to view the thoroughbreds in action, and get them back in time for dinner and dancing under the stars in the lovely tropical patios of their seaside manses.

One of Palm Beach's most popular hosts, Mr. Charles A. Munn, is an ardent turf fan and his house guests are as familiar with the club house at Hialeah as they are with Palm Beach's many attractive gathering spots.

Among recent house parties in Palm Beach that included an aerial or motor jaunt to Hialeah was Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps' attractive party honoring Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, which found Mrs. Phipps transporting her guests down to witness picturesque Flamingo Day at the beautiful Hialeah race track.

Mr. Joseph A. Widener, former president of Hialeah, and one of the cottage colony's most popular hosts, is another trail-blazer in house parties, with many of his attractive gatherings shuttling back and forth to Hialeah as regularly as commuters to the city. Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. B. Widener, Mr. Gurnee Munn and Mrs. A. H. Ruggles were members of his traveling party recently.

Noted at another box in the club house were Princess Alexis Obolensky, who was with Mr. and Mrs. William L. Brann, Miss Berry Brann and Mr. G. J. Dwyer. Among many other well known residents of the Palm Beach Cottage Colony giving parties that wound up at Hialeah on that day were:

Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, who is one of America's most noted matriarchs of the track; Col. E. R. Bradley, beloved resort figure, who had several in his interesting party; Mrs. George Luke Mesker, Mr. and Mrs. Lamot duPont, Mrs. John Rodman Wanamaker, Mrs. Wanamaker Munn, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Guest, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen "Laddie" Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence K.

MRS. FRANK C. HENDERSON
popular Palm Beach member of the Cottage Colony, whose lovely home "Land's End," has been the setting for many interesting parties this season.

Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Harold von Berge, Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Brokaw, Miss Fernanda Munn, Miss Mary Munn, Mr. Tommy Goodwin, Mr. Frazier Jelke, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Henderson and others.

The island's house parties become more interesting with the unfolding of each day of the 1941 season. With every plane, train and luxury liner bringing down a capacity load of socialites and celebrities from the bleak north, Palm Beach's cottage colony is teeming with life and color.

"Never a dull moment" seems to be the slogan of the island's masters and mistresses of the manse this season. Parties, excursions to distant ports and all of the fascinating pastimes imaginable are included in their daily schedule for their guests.

One of Palm Beach's most popular hostesses this season is Mrs. Frank C. Henderson, whose parties are always guaranteed against boredom. Mr. and Mrs. Henderson were hosts recently at an interesting cocktail party, given in honor of the Artists and Writers, then in Palm Beach.

Among their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Royce Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Major, Mr. and Mrs. E. Steuart Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herendeen, Prince and Princess Gialmo Odescalchi, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Morrish, Sir George and Lady Bettessworth Piggott, Col. and Mrs. Latham Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Salisbury, Mr. and Mrs. Newell Tilton, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marvin, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew

S. White, Mr. and Mrs. James McGaughey, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reeve, Major and Mrs. Marcellus Gallop, Mr. and Mrs. Van Lear Black, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dean, Mr. and Mrs. LeRay Berdeau, Mr. and Mrs. William Q. Cain, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Chandler, Dr. and Mrs. Victor Clarholm, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hoffman, Dr. and Mrs. William Y. Sayad, Mr. and Mrs. Harold von Berge, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth C. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Zuver.

Also Mrs. Joseph F. Moran, Lady Decies, Mrs. Clara-belle Walsh, Mrs. Tailer Carpenter, Mrs. Jean Woertz Edwards, Mrs. Frederick Herreshoff, Mrs. S. Fullerton Weaver, Mrs. Helen Helier, Mrs. Gilbert Cooper, Mrs. Alfred G. Brosseau, Mrs. Natalie Van Vleck, Mrs. Flynn Stewart, Mrs. Louise Leech, Mrs. Henry Ellsworth Bemis, Mrs. Eugene Carpenter, Mrs. Jerome Faulkner.

And Mr. Stewart McDonald, Mr. Howard Shelley, Mr. E. Leonard Beard, Jr., Dr. Joseph Jordan Eller, Count di Castagnola, Mr. Dwight Paul, Mr. Arthur Bradley Campbell, Marquis George McDonald, Mr. Dale Carnegie, Mr. Harry C. Radon, Captain Alastair Mackintosh, Prince Mikhail Goundoroff, Mr. C. Percival Dietsch, Mr. Charles Means, Mr. Messmore Kendall and Mr. A. Atwater Kent.

"Casa del Suenos," the lovely island villa of Mrs. Woods Plankinton, was the setting recently for a buffet dinner, given in compliment to her house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Greene, and Mrs. Dee Bredin. Music for the affair was furnished by Pep Fields. Among recent arrivals at the Woods-Plankinton house party are Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mackintosh, daughter and son-in-law of Mrs. Plankinton, and Mr. and Mrs. Leo T. Kissam.

Mrs. George Angue Dobyne and her daughter, Mrs. John Charles Thomas, entertained for the members of the ladies' committee for the sale of Romany tickets, with one of their always interesting luncheon cruises aboard the Thomas yacht "Masquerader." The party drifted down the lake enjoying the tropical background of the lake front and the many beautiful estates viewed enroute.

Among the guests aboard the "Masquerader" were Mrs. George Stevenson Fenton, Mrs. Edward Updyke Roddy, Jr., Mrs. Frank Vernon Skiff, Mrs. Emerson Buckley, Mrs. Fontaine LeMaistre, Mrs. Frederick D. Morrish, Mrs. Jack Salisbury, Mrs. Ellsworth C. Warner, Mrs. Harold Allen Braman, Mrs. Clinton Sibley Dow, Mrs. Guernsey Curran, Jr., Mrs. Blaine Webb, Mrs. Jesse Spalding, Mrs. George Randall, Mrs. Robert McCoskry Butt and Mrs. Henry Haven Windsor.

One of the musical highlights in the cottage colony this season was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis, when Miss Margaret Sittig, noted violinist, played a concert recital for the benefit of the Woman's Auxiliary of Bethesda-by-the-Sea.

Their beautiful lake-front home was decorated with a profusion of fresh-cut flowers, gathered from the Davis' beautiful garden, with a large bouquet of yellow roses as the centerpiece on the tea table. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. William Vogelback, Miss Pearl Johnson, Mrs. S. Fahs Smith and Mrs. William B. Jarvis.

Officers of the Woman's Auxiliary and Mrs. Davis were hostesses during the tea hour. They included Mrs. Roscoe Tate Anthony, president of the auxiliary; Mrs. Robert Lee Prior, first vice-president; Mrs. Anne P. Teed, secretary; Mrs. Alexander Lightfoot, custodian, and Mrs. Henry Kohl, treasurer.

SPRING STYLES HAVE ARRIVED in Palm Beach! A number of the smart shops have staged previews of what to expect come April—or, to add a rejuvenating touch to your resort wardrobe now! A number of novel trends and influences are being featured—new color tones and fascinating new names for perennial favorites!

The American Indian and the Chinese are influencing some phases of the spring styles; South America and the Greeks also come in for a share in the smart new style trends. The Gay Nineties, the ever-popular inspiration for fashion, is again in the limelight of sartorial chic!

In the final analysis of the newest of the new however, it amounts to just this—as the paramount issue in the latest fashion ideas. All clothes, whether tailored, casual, semi-formal or strictly formal are: definitely more feminine in styling—frills and furbelows abound! Even the two-piece tailored suit is feminized by frilly accent; by way of the sheer shirt-waist blouse—more often than not, be-ruffled and lace trimmed.

Fabrics, too, follow this lead! And—millinery! Hats whether large or small are trimmed with flowers, veils and birds—tilted at a rakish angle over the forehead, or worn directly back of the pompadour or bangs.

There is absolutely no doubt about it—fashion has gone most lady-like! And, it is the consensus of opinion among style authorities—they were never more alluring and chic!

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Shopping on Worth Avenue has become one of the style parades of the Nation! Outstanding among the numerous attractive costumes noted recently were: a white wool jacket trimmed with gold leaf design across the shoulder (back and front), topping a chalk white spectator sports frock. And—worn by Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr.

Mrs. Latham Ralston Reed—very smart in a white frock, dramatized by a bright red chinchilla cloth reefer coat.

Mrs. James Donahue—wearing one of the amusingly smart tattoo prints with a white wool cardigan sweater thrown nonchalantly over her shoulders.

Mrs. J. Jay O'Brien—in a strikingly designed white crepe spectator sports frock—the unusual pockets as the special style feature.

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy—very chic in bright red silk slacks suit, printed with huge white flower pattern.

Mrs. Lincoln Ellsworth—a dashing picture in light grey flannel slacks and yellow brushed wool sweater. Mrs. Ellsworth by way, is very fond of slacks and appears in them constantly for casual wear.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Dancing at the Everglades one recent evening, Mrs. Margaret Emerson wore a stunning gown of the popular shirtwaist styling, made of red and blue printed crepe; spangles in the same colors outlining the design.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. James Reeves wore an eye-arresting costume to the Palm Beach Country Club the other day—shell pink crepe, one-piece frock with a lot of style, and visor-brim hat of matching color and material. The frock was styled along shirtmaker lines with stitched-down pleats.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

The Tombola-luncheon-fashion show at the Everglades each week, is always a veritable style show in itself; the guests vying with the models in chic ensembles! Noted among the spectators at a recent luncheon: Mrs. Flynn Stewart in a good looking print frock, with soft medium blue as the predominating color note; topped by a sheer wool jacket of the lovely blue.

Mrs. Roscoe T. Anthony—also in blue (poudre)! A smart spectator sports affair with chapeau of the same color tone.

Noted at the Blue and White Ball at the Patio, given for the Friends of Greece benefit:

Mrs. Harrison Williams in Greek blue—a slim, chic gown glamorized with silver embroidery and glittering sequins.

Mrs. Nicolas Embiricos, in all-white; smart white gown and dashing white mantilla.

Mrs. Le Ray Berdeau, wearing pale blue with gold bead embroidery as the decorative medium.

Mrs. Joseph (Kim) Moran—the cynosure of all eyes, because of her dazzling jewelry! Sapphires and diamonds—the center sapphire (365 karats) of the striking necklace surrounded by large diamonds; huge diamonds and sapphires encircling her neck. Matching bracelets completed the striking bit of glimmer and sparkle!

Mrs. Margaret Emerson—in a lovely black dress of simple elegance! Pink camellias adorning either side of the low-cut décolletage.

Mrs. Diana Guest—very chic in an all-white ensemble.

Mrs. John Moffett—ultra-smart, gowned in sleek and slender styling of jet-black.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps looked very smart and spring-like at Hialeah one day recently, wearing a chic tailored suit of taupe beige covert cloth, topped by a toque of gay pink roses.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Howard C. Brokaw, also a frequent spectator at Hialeah, wore an entire beige outfit; very chic!

Mrs. James Lakeman Ward, noted at Hialeah, in green and white—white spectator sports frock, green sheer wool jacket, and white straw wide-brimmed sailor with green grosgrain band and veil.

Mrs. Frank C. Henderson was a charming hostess in pale grey crepe with fitted bodice and flaring skirt, for the buffet supper at "Land's End"—honoring the artists and writers.

Mrs. Harold Braman, lunching at the Chambord, wearing a medium blue crepe frock, accented with a dashing wide-brimmed white sailor; a white angora cardigan thrown over her shoulders.

Another smart-looking luncheon guest at the Chambord, preceding one of the popular Friday garden tours—Mrs. McAlpin Bell, in a striking grey outfit and vari-colored turban.

Mrs. Ritchie Farrell, noted at the Paramount Theatre, wearing a striking ensemble—gold crepe gown with evening coat and matching bag of white trimmed in gold braid (military motifs).

Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., at the Paramount the same evening—very lovely in all-white.

The weekly backgammon tournament and buffet dinner at the Everglades Club is always a veritable pageant of smart styles. Noted at a recent Tuesday affair were: Mrs. Anne Frelinghuysen in an unusually chic dinner suit—white with bright green flower print.

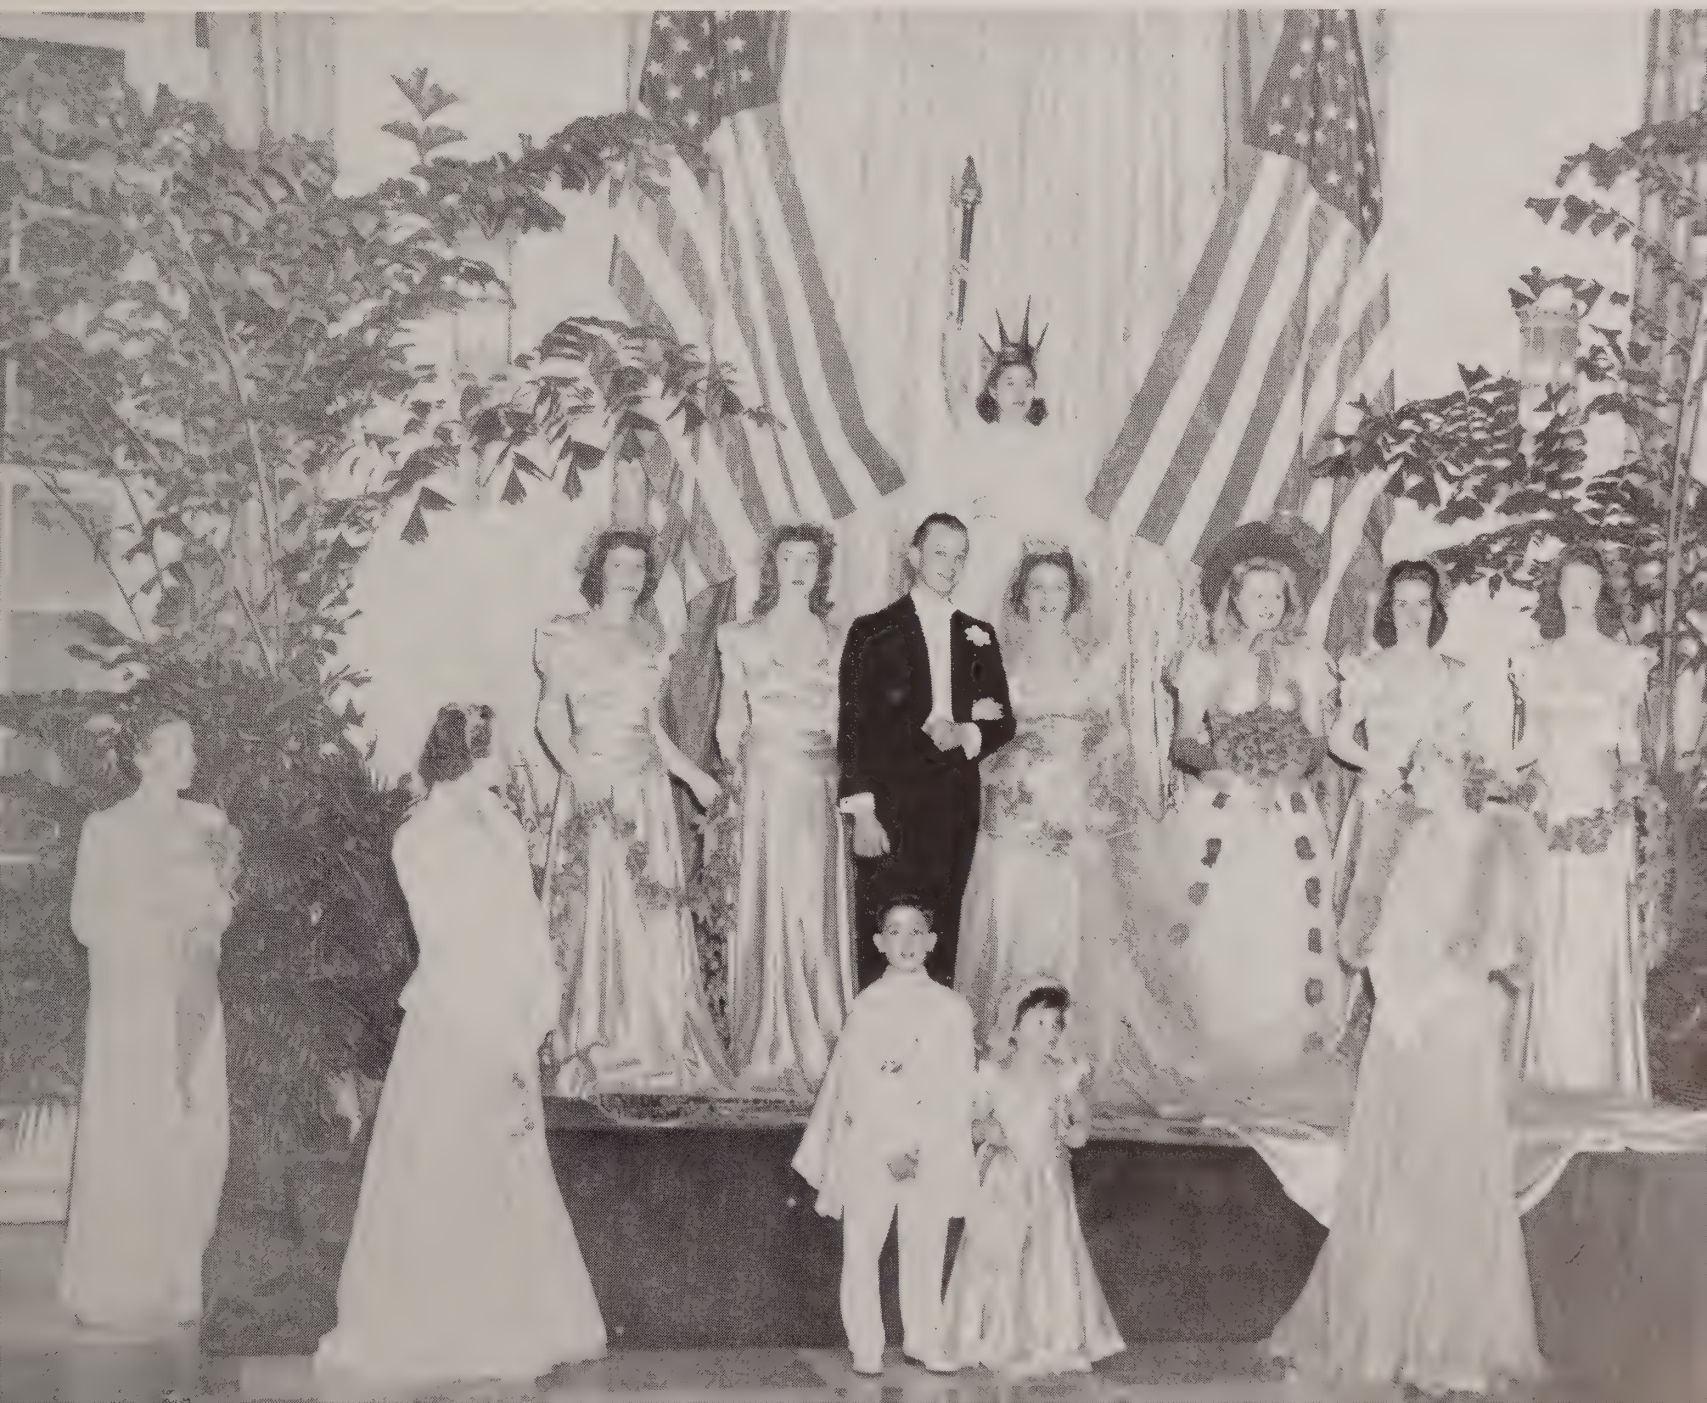

Miss Ann Mitchell, in black organza with narrow banded trimming in a series of multi-colors.

Miss Anton Dunn, wearing a lovely gold brocade gown—very slim and smart.

Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld, in a black creation, lavishly trimmed with gold sequins.

Mrs. Joseph F. (Kim) Moran, gowned in white—the entire dress covered with white beads.

The above bridal party is from the recent fashion showing of Mme. Najla Mogabgab at the Breakers. All in ice-blue! The bride's gown of satin and tulle with new over-drape and veil of the same elusive tine. She carried a hoop-bouquet of forget-me-nots and delphinium. The bridesmaids, were gowned in ice blue satin with cap-hats of the same color, and carried a rope of purple bougainvillea. The maid of honor wore ice blue satin trimmed with fuchsia ostrich tips—her flowers were fuchsia, in an old-fashioned bouquet arrangement. The tiny page boy and flower girl, echoed the ice blue color theme in their quaint satin costumes. The bride's mother was attired in a smart pink net frock and sable jacket. Pale grey was worn by the groom's mother—smartly trimmed with grey fox.

AMONG the PALMS

THE SEASON AT ITS HEIGHT marks a gay round of festivities at The Breakers, famed Palm Beach hostelry, where guests and their friends entertain daily at luncheon and dinner parties in the lovely circular dining room. Cocoanut Grove at The Breakers has been filled to capacity during the last few weeks with hundreds of resorters entertaining there during the daily tea dansants. George Shelley, sensational young baritone of radio, stage and screen, is featured at Cocoanut Grove and the music of Walter Miller's orchestra supplies rhythm for dancing. Evening dances on the terrace have also been the occasion for much entertaining this season. Featuring each week's program have been two Amateur Nights in which guests participated and an evening of dance attractions, highlighted by a Waltz Contest directed by Patricia and Burt Church, clever instructors at The Breakers whose solo interpretations of various dances have received glowing compliments.

Miss Ann Mitchell entertained a group at a tea dance among who were Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Worswick, Miss Frances Kilkenny, Miss Collingwood, and Mrs. John Mitchell and Mr. Parker von Vehn.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gore included Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKeon, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Traina, Mrs. Alexander Bonnyman, Mr. Jack Van Deurn, and Mr. Charles Layfield. Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marshall were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Weber, Mr. and Mrs. William MacNeill, Miss Frances Robinson, and Mr. William Phillips.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN FRANCIS FITZGERALD of Boston, Mass., enjoy a stroll through the sun-kissed tropical gardens of the Palm Beach Biltmore Hotel. The former Mayor and Mrs. Fitzgerald are parents of Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy.

Mrs. John Fendrich was hostess at tea last week to Mrs. Charles Clark, Mrs. Frank Kelly, Mrs. John L. Robertson, Mrs. George Hale, Mrs. Joseph Michaud, Mrs. James Reese, Mrs. Maier, Miss Catherine Clark, Mrs. B. Burke, and Miss Katherine Kiernan.

Mrs. Nixon Lee of Forest Hills, L. I., entertained on the terrace during the tea dance for Mrs. John L. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rea, Mrs. Joseph Politz, Mr. P. Stalino, Mrs. Janet Bickford and Mr. Ralph Webber.

Dr. and Mrs. Beaman Douglas gave a party at tea time as did Mr. John J. Donovan. Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Gooding entertained a group of seven and Mrs. Charles Snyder had a party. Mr. and Mrs. A. Edward Roys were at tea and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hopkins had two guests. Mrs. William Seyfert had a small group on the terrace. Mr. and Mrs. William Louis Koehne gave a party in Cocoanut Grove. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Laidlaw had a party of six. Mrs. Ludenbach entertained for eighteen. Mr. B. C. Douglas had a party of four.

Col. and Mrs. Samuel Waterman entertained guests at tea. In another party were noted Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Liese, Mrs. Robert Conway and Miss Ann Liese. In a group of the Artist and Writers' contingent were glimpsed Arthur William Brown, John Golden, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bundy and Hal Phylfe. At another table were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Collette and Countess Doorne.

Mrs. William Williams, Mrs. Bingham Plunkett, Mrs. William F. Bode, Col. and Mrs. John M. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Alan Van Clief were in a group.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Lindley Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKelvey, Miss Elise Giolitti and Mr. Arthur G. Hoffman were in another party on the terrace. Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Preston were a twosome as were Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wean. Noted in a party in the grove were Mrs. Marion Bulkley, Dr. Philip Marvel and Mr. Abbott Kimball.

Early March finds many guests prolonging their visits at Brazilian Court, pursuing their leisurely way of life, lounging and reading in the sunny patios, playing tennis and golf or swimming at one of the resort's clubs. At night they dine in the beautiful tropical patio with its luxuriant planting, on the Spanish cloister, or in the Bamboo Dining room.

On Sunday evening nearly three hundred were present at the buffet supper which is a highlight of the week end in this resort. Tables under the stars, or sheltered, were reserved far in advance. Those having guests included Mr. and Mrs. Vincent S. Mulford, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Dillon, Mr. J. T. Carney, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Teed, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Bitting, Mrs. Jasan Whitney, Mrs. Julian S. Jones, Mrs. Jonothan Peterson, Miss Frances Kilkenny, Mr. and Mrs. C. Vanderbilt Barton, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Brigadier General E. E. Gauche of New York, is a distinguished visitor registered at the hotel for a visit. Mr. Bradford W. Ripley joined his aunt, Mrs. Walter S. Goodwillie, at the hotel. Mr. Kenneth C. McCall has returned for his customary mid-season visit. His home is in Providence, R. I. Colonel and Mrs. Charles R. Wilder of Bronxville, N. Y., have returned and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gleeson of Tarrytown, Conn., are there for a short time. Mr. Eric G. Johnson is there for his fourth season from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Social life at the Palm Beach Hotel is at its peak now. Guests are enjoying cruises, bridge and backgammon tournaments, games, and wheel chair rides. In the evening, aperitif parties in the Jungle Grill before dinner, and late supper parties following the theatre. The Thursday night dinner dances with entertainment are attended by several hundred and the hilarity is often emphasized by special voluntary entertainment by the guests.

Two recent events at the hotel were of special importance; on February 21, the dinner dance held by members of the Shaughnessy Club made up of directors, officers and employees of the First National Bank of Palm Beach. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Wiley R. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Teed, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Winters, Mr. Fuller Warren, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Pierce, Robert Pentland, Mr. Wiley R. Reynolds, Jr., Miss Hazel S. Gorham, Miss Adelaide Goodell, Mr. George F. Hull, Miss Maureen Piers, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Nations, Miss Ethyle M. Chichester, Miss Virginia Claudon, Mr. John Alden Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Boggs, Mrs. J. J. Henderson, Jr., Mr. John Keece Lewis, Jr., Miss Kay Brainard, Mr. William Miller, Miss Janet Lockwood, Miss Anne K. Walker, Miss Mary Nell Binckard, Mr. William A. Eckler, Robert Conn and many others.

The opening of the Biltmore Galleries at the Palm Beach Biltmore this past week has been of interest to resident guests at the resort and members of the colony, several hundred of whom have viewed the current exhibits there of works by prominent metropolitan artists. The conversion of the extensive lower lobby of the hotel into a series of well lighted exhibition rooms has proved a distinctive improvement that has been carried out under the direction of Mr. John L. Stanley, general manager of the Biltmore. Newly painted and decorated the exhibition rooms were opened to the public last week and arrangements have been completed for a series of exhibitions, including several one-man shows to be on display there during the remainder of the season.

More than fifty members of the New Jersey Seniors' Golf Association are at the Biltmore this week for their 20th annual winter tournament that is now in progress over the eighteen hole championship course at the Palm Beach Country Club. The tournament, a medal play event, opened yesterday and will be continued on Wednesday and Friday of this week with prizes to be presented at the annual dinner Friday night in the Muleteer Grill.

An affiliate of the National Seniors' Golf Association the classification of members is in accordance with national rules and prizes will be awarded in the following classes of competition: Class AA, 75 years and over; Class A, 70 years to 74; Class B, 65 years to 69; Class C, 60 years to 64, and Class D, 55 years to 59.

In addition to the association's trophies, a silver cup presented by the management of the Biltmore will be awarded the member with the best low gross score.

Mr. Wilfred Garretson, president of the association, will be host at a cocktail assembly for members and their guests at the Biltmore this week. Other officers for 1941 include Charles E. Sherman, vice-president; Ralph Richards, treasurer, and Harry D. Smith, secretary. The New Jersey Seniors have as their home club the Essex Fells Country Club, Essex Fells, N. J.

The annual meeting of the Foreign Commerce Golf Club of New York opened at the Biltmore Saturday, March 1, and will be concluded on Wednesday of this week. About twenty members are participating in the club's annual tournament at the Palm Beach Country Club.

FRED WETTACH

one of the finest riders in this country shown putting one of his favorite mounts "Plymouth Rock," over a jump. Wettach is seen frequently in play at Gulfstream.

Polo and Players

THE DELRAY POLO CLUB AT GULFSTREAM is enjoying a most successful season with a large number of nationally and internationally known players participating in thrilling matches which have attracted groups of resort folk from Palm Beach and adjoining resorts to the games held several times each week.

The famous Phipps Fields and the stable and playing facilities offered there present an ideal atmosphere for this sport of Princes with a setting as beautiful as anywhere in the world.

Players wearing the colors of Westbury or the Hurricanes spur their ponies on trying to outrun their rivals on the Gulfstream or Hunting Valley teams, until the red flag is waved indicating that a goal has been made or the gong is rung stridently denoting the end of a chukker. Then the players come cantering in with saddles creaking and ponies fretting, to change mounts for another period, making game of their fellows and commenting on various good shots made.

The polo fields are a picture of beauty on a warm sunny morning with a slight breeze stirring through the palms and Australian pines bordering the fields.

There comes the thud of hoofs on the springy sod and suddenly, as one approaches an opening in the tall hedge bordering on each side of the bridle path, an unrestricted view is given of a scene of unwonted activity on the playing field.

Players astride diminutive ponies of seemingly tireless energy, fitting the saddle as though born to it, go through maneuvers time after time, practicing field and goal shots and putting their ponies through their paces, training them for their matches.

A famed aggregation of internationally known polo players are taking part in matches at the Delray Polo club this season.

Michael Phipps rated among the top players of the game, listed at nine goals and featured in international contests is seen frequently in matches with Winston Guest, formerly a member of the American Cup defense team which triumphed over the British team and also a nine goal player. Both hit a long ball and are prominent in the summer matches on Long Island.

Laddie Sanford, whose prowess as a polo player also includes some famous steeplechase riding has played as much polo as any man living, has one of the outstanding strings of ponies in the world and is always in the thick of the game.

Robert Clark, who hails from Middleburg, Va., is one of the promising young polo players. He has a large farm in Virginia where he raises his own ponies. Much is expected from Robert Clark in future polo play.

John Mortimer Schiff of New York who has recently been seen in action at the Delray Polo club is not only a fine mallet man but is fond of steeplechase as well. His horses Tyronne and Indigo are famous in the sport of steeplechase.

Zane Colt, a newcomer in the local sport hails from Massachusetts, has an impressive string of ponies and is doing a great deal to promote the game in the New England states.

Gerald Dempsey is one of the most colorful players in the game. A six goal player he has taken part in 20-goal tournaments at Westbury. He rides hard and plays the same way and is always in the thick of things.

Pedro Silvero is the lone representative of the Argentine in the Gulfstream play. He came from South America to train the Argentine players in their recent matches in this country and swings one of the best mallets among his countrymen.

Terrence Preece of Westbury comes from the famous Preece family team which has made polo history in this country. He is one of the best horsemen in the country and with his father Godfrey Preece and his brother Stewart has discovered and trained some of the finest polo mounts ever known.

Colonel Tom Hastings brings the military note to the polo contests at Delray Polo club. He has done a great deal to keep the game thriving in Army circles and plays a hard, fast game.

George Kent, Jr., has been a familiar figure in polo matches both at Westbury and in Florida. He is a good rider and a real horseman, knows all the intricacies of the game and is popular with his teammates.

Fred Tejan, genial manager of the Delray Polo club deserves the highest commendation for keeping the sport of polo in the forefront of sports in Florida. Known as the Will Rogers of polo he was a close friend of that famous figure and is as jolly and witty as Will was.

Edward Tejan, well known son of an equally well known father started playing polo in Oklahoma at the age of sixteen, going to Kansas City to play in the invitation tournament there which he won.

Top polo stars of the country played a thrilling contest yesterday which turned into a scoring duel with Gulfstream winning over Middleburg by the score of 12 to 7 on the Phipps Fields of the Delray Polo club.

Gerald Dempsey and Pedro Silvero playing for Gulfstream rode like demons, the former tallying five goals and the latter registering four. On the Middleburg outfit, Laddie Sanford scored three. The Gulfstream lineup included Ed Tejan, Pedro Silvero, Gerald Dempsey and Robert Clarke. On the Middleburg team were Laddie Sanford, John Schiff, who made his first appearance of the season here, Terrence Preece and Andy Clough.

A hard riding Gulfstream four battled a persistent Fort MacPherson team to a 5 to 5 deadlock at the Delray Polo club before one of the largest crowds of the current season.

Pedro Silvero of the Gulfstream and Col. Tom Hastings of Fort MacPherson were the high goal men of the day each putting three pellets through the uprights.

Gulfstream was represented by Fred Wettach, Ed Tejan, Pedro Silvero and Gerald Dempsey while making up the Fort MacPherson outfit were Col. Tom Hastings, Laddie Sanford, Fred Tejan, Robert Clarke.

A striking air view of the famous Phipps Fields of the Delray Polo club showing a thrilling match in progress on the North field which is one of two large playing fields. There are also three practice fields and quarters for hundreds of ponies, offering one of the most beautiful settings for this famous game to be seen in the world.

Miami Beach

WITH THE CURRENT SEASON REACHING a colorful peak, gay dinner dances, cabana parties, bridge, backgammon, tennis, surf sports, and sun basking highlight the daily program of colonists at the Pancoast.

Mrs. Charles Henry Cates of Youngstown entertained with luncheon this week in the Mediterranean Room of this hotel. Her guests included Mrs. Leslie Coombs Bruce and daughter, Mrs. George Reid of Greenwich, Conn. Mrs. Richard Garlick and Mr. and Mrs. E. Mason Wick and daughter, Miss Janie Wick of Youngstown.

Mrs. Harlan Forbes, Munsey Park, L. I., N. Y., who is passing the winter with her family in Delray was given a luncheon party at the Cabana Club by Mrs. Albert T. Johnson, Forest Hills, N. Y., a Pancoast guest. Mrs. Johnson was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Harold K. Kramer of Plandome, a colonist in this resort.

Mrs. James Budd of Atlanta, has arrived at this hotel to visit her aunt, Mrs. Frank Hawkins and Mr. Hawkins of Peachtree Street in Atlanta.

Miss Margaret Goddard of New York has arrived in Miami Beach, where she has joined her grandmother, Mrs. Frank A. Davis of Columbus, O., at the Pancoast, who has been holidaying here for some time.

Charter members of the Pancoast Sun Baskers Club are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Taylor Roberts of Bronxville and Mrs. Alma L. Roe of New York. While the morning finds them engaged in this pastime on the beach, high noon finds them in their smartest bib and tucker, and headed for the races in Hialeah.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Bromley of Philadelphia, whose horses are running at the Hialeah meet, are frequent hosts at the Pancoast where they are seasonal guests. The other night they were dinner hosts for a smart assemblage of colonists.

Miss Evelyn Evans, who is passing the season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Evans of Pittsburgh at the Pancoast, is cruising for a week in Bahaman waters with Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Meyer of Pittsburgh aboard the yacht Visitor III.

Mr. Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Church have joined the colony at the Pancoast for their annual visit.

The newly wedded Mr. and Mrs. James C. Kimbrough of Muncie, Ind., are honeymooning at the Pancoast. The bride is the former Miss Ashton Miller, daughter of Mrs. Charles E. Miller of Muncie, and the late Dr. Miller.

The Virginia colony at this hotel has been augmented by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Camp of Franklin, who are here for their annual visit. Arriving from Nassau.

B. W. I., Mr. and Mrs. J. Pinckney Harrison of Richmond have joined the Pancoast colony. The Camps and the Harrisons are members of the Cavalier Beach Club in Virginia Beach, where they take an active part in social affairs during the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Otho Wathen of Jeffersonville, Ind., assisted by their daughter, Mrs. V. Wathen Gutierrez of New York, entertained with a dinner party this week in honor of Monsignor William Barry of Miami Beach.

Mrs. Fred Herbert of Miami, formerly of Golden Beach, Fla., entertained with a luncheon party this week at the Pancoast Cabana Club in compliment to Mrs. Auber J. Robbins of Bloomsburg, Pa., and Mrs. Mary de Milan of Coconut Grove and Havana.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Lippincott and their guest, Dr. Caroline Vetkesky, all of Philadelphia, are guests at the Pancoast, as are Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Onimus of Drexel Hill.

Fortnighting in this resort are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Funkhouser of Sheperdstown, West Va. They are at the Pancoast, where they joined his brother, Mr. Elmer Funkhouser and Mrs. Funkhouser of Hagerstown, Md.

New Jerseyites recently arrived in this resort include Mr. and Mrs. Louis V. Keeler, of Montclair, Mrs. Arthur B. Armstrong of Westfield and Mr. and Mrs. George K. Scribner of Boontown, all at the Pancoast. Mrs. Armstrong is here for her first season, while the Keelers and Scribners are annual guests at this hotel. The Scribners are splendid dancers, and usually outshine the professionals at the dinner dances in this hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Gideon M. Stull and Mr. Arthur E. Copeland of Chester and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Day of Wynwood, Pa., form a daily quintet on the beach at the Pancoast. They are here for their seasonal sojourn, and contemplate a flight by Clipper Ship to Nassau, B. W. I., during their stay.

The British colony, due to the war, is curtailed this season, which made it especially pleasant to have Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Henry Hogg of Toronto, Canada, pass a few days at the Pancoast, prior to departure for Nassau.

Mrs. W. D. Woolson of Springfield, Vt., who is passing several months at the Pancoast, has been joined this week by Mrs. C. H. Drury, also of Springfield.

Mrs. Orlando Dana and daughter, Mrs. Denison D. Dana of Englewood, N. J., are guests for several weeks at the Pancoast. Later in the spring, they will holiday at the Kirkwood in Camden, S. C., and after that, they will go to Washington, D. C., to participate in the Cherry Blossom Festival.

Denizens of the Deep at Home in Marineland

"MEET ME TONIGHT IN MARINELAND", must have been the refrain of countless big game fish during the past few years, judging from the magnificent collection of deep-sea monsters on display at their Marine Studios. To say that the innumerable specimens of ocean-going greyhounds are on display at fabulous Marineland however, is definitely an understatement, for the giant sting-rays, man-eating sharks, primordial sea-turtles of unbelievable size and countless other deep-sea specimens found here, are as much at home in the magnificently conceived under-sea playground as they were before their capture and subsequent change of residence.

Just eighteen miles south of historic old Saint Augustine and thirty-five miles north of contrastingly modern Daytona Beach, Marineland is Florida's most unique piscatorial thrill. Here are found big-game fish, on a scale never before encountered, in a setting that displays them in all their natural beauty and in their natural environment. Only a submarine with a glass bottom or a jaunt on the ocean floor in a diver's suit hundreds of feet below the surface would reveal similarly breath-taking views.

Heretofore it had been necessary to either build small miniature tanks for underwater photography — thus losing the perspective, and the opportunity to work with giant specimens — or to go below the surface of the Ocean in diving suits and bells. This latter method was almost totally unsatisfactory, inasmuch as it was necessary for the cameraman to wait for fair weather, and after that — weeks of patient waiting for the fish to swim by.

Here in the world's only oceanariums a constant ever-changing panorama of marine life moves before the observation "ports". An alert cameraman will quickly find himself in the first stages of St. Vitus's dance if he becomes too ambitious and tries to record all that passes before his view.

Fair weather or foul, the colorful inhabitant of the briny deep parade in bright review.

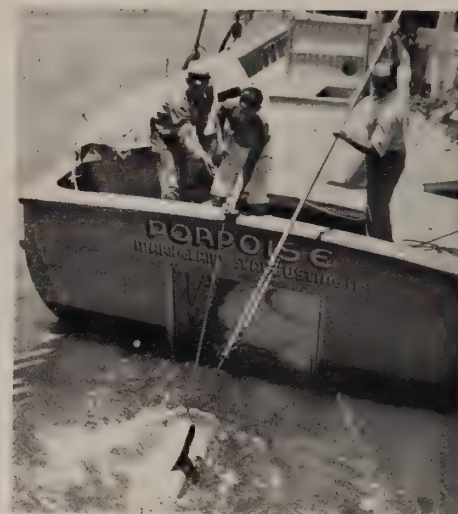

Junior, with his dollar and fifty cents mail-order camera, or the film fiend with his expensive equipment, stand side by side and record on celluloid one act plays in the life of these piscatorial perplexities.

Science, too, has sharpened its pencil of knowledge and is jotting down notes on ocean technicalities heretofore unknown.

Equipped with its own modern laboratory, Marine Studios has a competent staff of biologists who are constantly cataloging the newly deciphered knowledge garnered from the lives of the "inmates".

And so the visitor to this modern miracle spot sees a saga of the sea, below the surface. Sea fans and shells, blue - green waters with kaleidos-

Count Ilia Tolstoy is shown just after plunging his specially designed hypodermic harpoon into a large shark from the deck of the expedition boat, "Porpoise." This method of capturing large specimens is entirely harmless and renders Mr. Shark unconscious during his transfer from the ocean to his new home in the world's only oceanarium.

Marine Studio staff divers descend into 18 feet of water to feed by hand large sharks, Jewfish and many other varieties of undersea life. There are over 50,000 specimens of marine life in the world's only oceanarium.

copic patterns of sunlight filtering through the undersea world. Before him lies the broken remains of a sunken vessel, resting forlornly on the sandy bottom.

A 400 pound jewfish stands silent guard before the entrance to his barnacle-encrusted hulk or a home. Suddenly from the haze around the stern of the wreck appears the Martian figure of a diver; a billowy cloud of chormium-like bubbles rising from his helmet air-vent and cascading to the surface.

The giant jewfish backs away a few inches at this intrusion of his domain. As if this might be the cue for action, the scene is rapidly filled with moving objects.

The huge manta-rays, or devilfish, flap slowly through the background. A school of silvery bumper fish glide gracefully past the diver who is now cautiously maneuvering around the wreck. Then from nowhere looms the great shadow of man's most dreaded enemy of the deep . . . the shark.

Twelve feet of sinewy, living dynamite, hangs in "mid-air", surveying the scene. The diver "Freezes", hands inert at his side; for a moment his air bubbles even appear to cease. But, the huge monster is ignoring the diver completely.

Winding stairs add to the structural beauty of Marine Studios, world's only oceanarium. Pathways of crushed coquina rock, lined with stately Yucca and other tropical plantings add much to its architectural beauty. Here specimens are not segregated as in ordinary aquaria, but are all placed together to live as they do in the open sea.

Before the breathless gaze of dozens of pairs of eyes that peer through 200 portholes at this dramatic bit of action the shark comes to rest a few inches from the diver; his beady eyes survey him intently. For a thrill-packed moment man and monster stare at each other, then with a sulky swish of his tail, the gray brute swims away and the electrified scene is a thing of the past.

Such scenes are anything but imaginative at Marine Studios, where every hour of every day is packed with thrills that electrify thousands, as life goes on as usual under the sea at Marineland.

Condensed in a few words, Marine Studios are the world's only oceanariums and only specially designed professional underwater motion picture studios. The difference between Marine Studios and other aquariums lies in the fact that here marine life is not segregated in small tanks by species, but placed together as it exists in the open sea.

Two huge tanks, one a circular tank 75 feet in diameter, the other a rectangular tank 100 feet in length, comprise this unique institution. Enclosed galleries run the perimeter of the buildings, and in the sides and bottom more than 200 large, glass portholes have been placed for the observation of deep-sea denizens as they seek out a normal existence.

In these gigantic reservoirs have been placed a seven ton coral reef—a five ton rock garden and countless numbers of sea fans, shells, and plumes. Here in these cavernous grottos, gayly colored tropical fish seek protection from their predatory enemies. Playful porpoises rise to the surface to breathe air from the curious blow-hole in the top of their heads. Clumsy turtles, some weighing 300 pounds, lumber lazily through the iridescent waters. A 1000 pound sea cow patiently nurses her 300 pound "youngster". A school of mullet stupidly stumble over themselves as they endeavor to forsake the path of a mammoth shark.

No speed limits in this unusual community, if it could be called such, other than "Pudgy", the Porpoise, streaking across one of the huge tanks at amazing Marine Studios, in a hurry for his dinner. No mayor or city officials to doll up in their Sunday best for strolls in the park—every day is Sunday with all the scintillating vari-colored tropical specimens parading in bright display in this sub-sea fairyland.

The pet of Marine Studios, "Grumpy", a rotund Loggerhead Turtle, sails majestically through a school of silvery Bonita, as if to say, "Break it up, boys. Break it up", while a dainty looking Porcupine Fish, if she sees Roscoe, the File Fish, looking too often her way, swells up like an over-inflated toy balloon covered with prickly pears.

The musical chimes of the communication system sound one of the feeding hours, and in response to the ship's bell which is lowered into the water, from every rock, crevice, nook and cranny of this ocean floor city, the finny inhabitants come scurrying to be the first to be fed; or sometimes a sleepy-eyed Grouper, of Jewfish, lying in wait for just this occasion, gobbles up the unwary stragglers; "Grumpy", the armor plated policeman of Marine Studios' undersea domain, just winks his eye and pays no attention.

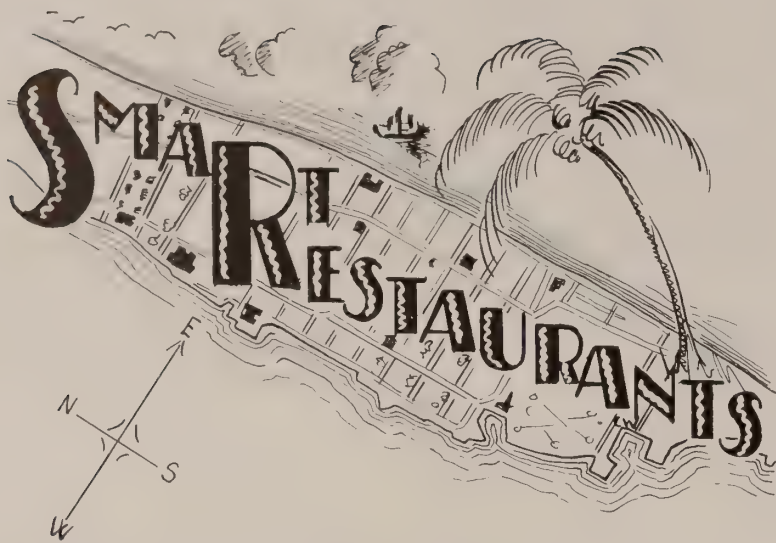

Cruising slowly near the surface, a Barracuda, the Ribbentrop of this world below the surface, perfectly camouflaged to blend with his immediate surroundings, suddenly swoops with lightning rapidity on an unsuspecting Ladyfish, adding another victim to his string of conquests.

Certainly Marineland has been a boon to the Motion Picture Industry. Whether the story and continuity be of two divers fighting on the ocean floor or the technicalities involved for pearl fishing in the South Seas, the set can be changed, the cameras can grind and the acclaim of theatre goers will testify to the success of the picture.

And so it goes at Florida's amazing Marineland, where one may peer through portholes while comfortably seated in a dry setting and watch the denizens of the deep disport themselves just as though they had never left their home on the floor of the Atlantic.

A peek through the port holes at Marineland's glamorous undersea gardens discloses an amazing variety of fish, from the huge man-eating sharks to a countless diversity of bottom or reef fish such as the group represented in this picture. Included in this group are unusual varieties of bow-fin, sand-perch, trigger-fish, scorpion-fish, rabbit-fish, hog-fish, the common mullet, Spanish hog-fish, cat-fish, orange file-fish, lizard-fish, bat-fish, rainbow parrot-fish, leather jack burr-fish, porcupine fish, spade-fish, peacock-flounder, star-gazer, red snapper, sargassum, soap-fish, goggle-eye, tangs, black angel, scorpion trumpet and cornet fish.

THE DISTINCTIVE EMBLEM OVER THE ENTRANCE to a charming patio in the Worth Avenue Arcade marks the entrance to a dining place with an enviable reputation. It is Mayerling, the truly authentic Viennese restaurant, which is under the personal direction of Charles, formerly of the Everglades Club. The unique cuisine which is a feature at this charming spot continues to attract those who know and appreciate fine food.

The sunny patio at Mayerling, with its gay table and bright tropical foliage, is the scene of many gay luncheon parties. Smart shoppers on Worth Avenue find Mayerling a perfect place to relax while they enjoy the delectable dishes which are prepared by a chef who takes a personal pride in preparing these intriguing menus.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kinnard Tod, outstanding members of the cottage colony, were a recent dinner twosome. Mr. and Mrs. James Ballentine, III, are frequent dinner hosts at Mayerling. Mr. Adolf LaTour entertained there and Mrs. Edgar Bryant was hostess to a group of six.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Paley, Mr. Marc Sevastopoulo, Mrs. Sawyer Hill, Mr. Knut Hedlund, Prince George Scherbatoff, Mrs. Charles Foster and Mr. Peter Van Veen are often seen at Mayerling. Mr. and Mrs. John Moffat and Mr. and Mrs. H. Winfield Chapin come over from the Everglades Club where they are spending the season.

Miss Alice de Lamar frequently lunches at Mayerling with a friend or two. Mr. and Mrs. N. Harlan Slack were a recent twosome, as are Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand L. Taylor. Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Sanderson were dinner hosts there to a larger party. Mr. and Mrs. John L. Volk are a frequent luncheon twosome.

Others noted at Mayerling recently were Mrs. William L. Culbert, Mrs. John M. Wright, Mrs. Reeves Rutledge, Mr. and Mrs. George T. McCarthy, Mr. J. A. Peter Strassburger, Mr. Al Jolson, and Mr. Edward Howland Graham, who was seen with Mr. George Mahanna and Mr. S. D. Ripley.

The Chambord, popular gathering place of resort socialites and celebrities, is the setting for a continuous round of gay luncheons, cocktail, and dinner parties. Amid the true atmosphere of Old France, guests enjoy a superb cuisine complimented by a cellar of aristocratic vintages, while the regular Sunday Beachcomber Breakfast at the Chambord attracts scores each week.

Miss Luise Rainer, noted cinema actress, entertained Mrs. Felix Warburg and Miss Ingrid Warburg at the Beachcomber Breakfast recently.

Mrs. June Holbrook entertained a large gathering of friends. Among her guests were Col. and Mrs. James R. Branch, Mr. and Mrs. William Q. Cain, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. La Cloche, Mr. and Mrs. John Groome, Mrs. Peyton Van Renselaer, Mr. C. Percival Dietsch and Mr. Duane.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Emory entertained at a large party.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer D. Smith of Bergen, Norway, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Willard Johnson of Newtown, Conn. Mr. J. Schuyler Casey gave a luncheon to honor Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lanby, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Brewster were hosts at a luncheon. Others entertaining groups at the Beachcomber Breakfast included Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Sunstrone.

Dinner parties are much in vogue with members of the smart winter colony. In one large party were noted New York Congressman Hamilton Fish, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Waterbury and Miss Christine Cromwell. Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Navins were dinner guests of Judge and Mrs. Herbert J. Goodwin, and Mr. Alan Howard had dinner guests.

Mrs. Harrison Williams entertained a dinner guest at the Chambord one evening. Mrs. Earl Sinclair was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George McClellan and Miss Mary Curbin was with Mrs. Kay Boy-Ed.

Miss Jacqueline de Tonnay was the dinner guest of Dr. and Mrs. Pablo de Calatayud.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dulany Hunter entertained two dinner guests at the Chambord last week. Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Fargon of Whitehall were a twosome and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Newton had a party of four.

Nassau-Crossroad of International Society

WITH THE ADVENT OF THE DUKE AND DUCHESS of Windsor into the social and civic life of the Bahamas, international society has made this jewel of the Bahamas, more than ever before the crossroad of the social set of two continents.

Everything from the gay and sparkling "Head-Dress Ball" held at Nassau's smart Jungle Club under the sponsorship of the Bahamas Humane Society to a host of benefit balls for British War Relief have contributed to the general gaiety of the season in Nassau.

His Royal Highness and the Duchess of Windsor were the guests of honor at the "Head-Dress Ball" and numbered among their party were Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Holmsen, Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Boettcher and other popular members of Palm Beach and New York society.

Lady Jane Williams-Taylor, perennial chairman of this famous annual charity ball, was a gracious hostess and arranged a party of such outstanding interest that the Duke and Duchess and their party came in early and stayed until the wee hours of the morning; an unusual procedure for this popular couple, who generally make a brief appearance and leave as early as possible, due to the press of many social and civic affairs.

The glamorous and lovely Miss Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, granddaughter of Lady Jane, was unanimously acclaimed the wearer of the most beautiful head-dress at the Ball.

Mr. Newell Kelly, internationally known managing director of the Fort Montagu Beach Hotel and the "Jungle," which was the setting for the "Head-Dress Ball," presented this famous spot which was most glamorous.

Among those giving large parties at the Jungle on the night of the Head-Dress Ball were Mr. and Mrs. George Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Newell Kelly, Sir Frederick and Lady Williams-Taylor, Mr. Peter Van Vlanderen, Miss Brenda Frazier, Mr. John F. Ormond Beach

MARCH IS JUST BUBBLING OVER with activity and the next few weeks will find the social barometer at a high mark, judging from the gay parties and charity benefits on the program.

Today, March 4, finds the local branch of "Bundles for Britain," of which Mrs. G. Butler Smith, of New York, is president, presenting a series of living tableaux of famous Britons on the stage of the Hotel Ormond ballroom. Mrs. Charles Garth is general chairman in charge of arrangements and is assisted in producing the portraits by Mrs. Oakes Ames, Mrs. Phillip Mock, Mrs. Charles B. Prettyman, Mrs. W. C. Perry, Mrs. Don Emery, Mrs. Henry Staten, Mrs. W. A. Chenoweth and Mrs. John R. Parkinson. The musical program is under the direction of Wells Hively, composer-musician. Among the interesting subjects selected are Queen Elizabeth, St. George, Queen Victoria, Florence Nightingale, Shakespeare, Mary, Queen of Scots and many others.

Occupying the golf spotlight for March is the first annual Mid-Winter Florida invitation golf party. Members of the group arrived at the Hotel Ormond on March 1 and are competing in a match play tournament this week. Edmund H. Driggs, Jr., former Metropolitan and New York State amateur champion, is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. Acting as co-chairmen with the erstwhile Princeton football star are Peter R. McCrae, secretary-treasurer of the New York State Golf Association, and James A. Leyden, of Scarsborough-on-Hudson, N. Y.

This party includes a number of golfers and their wives who have played in Bermuda the past several years. Among those in the group are Mr. and Mrs. Driggs, Mr. and Mrs. Don L. Moore, Dr. and Mrs. R. N. Pierson, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kliegl, John Murphy, Theodore I. Merseles, Richard F. Gretsche, George L. Johnson, Fred Gretsche, Jr., Dr. Hugh M. McKeown, Dr. Carl M. Sautter, all of New York; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gunther, Forest Hills, L. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. McKay, Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hequembourg, T. Roland Hanrahan, Schenectady, N. Y.; H. M. Crist, Vineyard Haven, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Lawrence, Newark, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald W. O'Connor, Waterford, N. Y.; Philip L. Corson, Plymouth Meeting, Pa., and J. Hicks Kerr, Hot Springs, Va.

A veritable barrage of parties in the cottage colony has kept hostesses and guests in a perfect whirl. Everyone is either about to entertain or be entertained at one of the beautiful ocean-front or river-side estates.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Robbins, of Cleveland, who have leased the Shiras residence for the season, entertained with a cocktail party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denison, also of Cleveland. Among the guests invited were Professor and Mrs. Oakes Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Victor N. Camp, Mr. and Mrs. C. Brooks Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Burwell Thornton, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Mock, Mr. and Mrs. Philipp Mock, Dr. and Mrs. Curtis von Faber du Faur, Mr. and Mrs. Reamy Field, Mr. and Mrs. George Eustis Potts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Prettyman, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert A. Price, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hulett, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Chapin, Mrs. Joseph Cannon, Mrs. L. H. Robbins, Mrs. George Butler Smith, Mrs. William Otis, Mrs. Macon Thornton, Mrs. W. H. MacAfee, Mrs. William F. Morris, Mrs. Charles Garth, Mrs. H. C. Hale, Misses Margaret Rhodes, Marcia Henry, Mary Fisher, Edith Kenea, Marian Baker, Alice Wright, Jane MacAfee and Mr. Frank Nute.

The Philipp E. Mocks also were hosts at the cocktail hour—which form of entertaining society seems to favor this season. The party was given at their attractive home on the beach and was for his sister and her husband, Dr. and Mrs. Curtis von Faber du Faur, of Cambridge, Mass., who are their house guests. Included in the list of those invited were Mrs. Oakes Ames, Mr. and Mrs. George Eustis Potts, Mrs. Charles Garth, Mrs. W. H. MacAfee, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Chenoweth, the Misses Mary and Grace Thomas.

Among the meetings of interest in the cottage colony this season was a recent gathering of members of the Ormond Beach Club, held at Villa Sans Souci, winter home of Mrs. Herbert H. Oltman. Following dinner Robert Blackstone presented his wife, Joy Postle, who gave a short talk on art and exhibited several of her most recent water colors. Among those present were Professor and Mrs. Oakes Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Victor N. Camp, Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Butts, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Moore, Dr. and Mrs. Sidney G. Main, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Price, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. C. Brooks Stevens, Mrs. Eugene Jones, Mrs. William Van Buskirk, Mrs. Susan Porter, Mrs. George Butler Smith, Mrs. Henry W. Cannon, the Misses Marian Baker, Mary E. Fisher, Margaret Rhodes, Alice Wright and Mr. Frank Nute.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wilmsen, of Elkins Park, Pa., have arrived at the Hotel Ormond and are occupying one of the attractive suites. Their daughter, Mrs. John Blakeley, also of Elkins Park, was their guest several days before returning to her home. Later in March they expect their son and his family, Joseph Wilmsen, of Rushland, Pa., to join them.

Visitors at the Ormond for a short stay were Mr. and Mrs. Owen Osborne, Jr., of Melrose, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Schmitz, of Greenwich, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Saiter, of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Blayne of St. Louis, Mrs. Harry E. Sutton and daughter, Mary Hale, of West Roxbury, Mass., Mrs. J. W. Smith and daughter, Rosemary, of Winchester, Mass.

Mrs. Bradford Merrill of New York, who has been passing her winters at the hotel for a number of years, is back this season and is settled in her regular suite.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Spaidal have arrived from Palm Beach to occupy the Prettyman estate on the Ocean Shore Boulevard for the balance of the winter months. They will entertain many of their friends and members of the immediate family in the course of the next few weeks.

H. L. Baldwin, publicity director for the Boston and Maine railroad, and Mrs. Baldwin visited here recently. They motored from Melbourne and had luncheon at the hotel with a party of friends including Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Voll, Mrs. Edna Mitchell and Mrs. Rose Pierce.

Among late arrivals in the cottage colony was Mrs. T. C. Matthews, of Lewiston, Pa., who opened her home on Seton Trail the latter part of February. She has her daughter, Harriet, and youngest son, Tommy, with her. An older son, Sammy, is attending a military academy in the North. Mr. Matthews is expected to join his wife and family shortly. The Matthews are popular members of the younger set and their home will be the center of many gay and delightful parties.

Some Ground Covers That Are Not Grasses

TRADITION, CUSTOM AND SHEER MERIT have placed grass in the first place of public favor as a covering for the raw earth. Grass fully deserves its universal popularity as nothing can surpass the perfection of well-kept turf. Its color, texture and general character make it, without question, the groundcover par excellence.

However, says John V. Watkins, assistant professor, horticulture, University of Florida, there are situations where it is extremely difficult to establish and maintain an acceptable greensward. For these difficult spots we know of several plants that are often more useful; more easily grown than are the true grasses.

Garden conscious people are continually noting, and trying for themselves, departures from the commonplace in groundcovers. A little imagination can work wonders in transforming that barren bit of dust-dry soil into a very presentable expanse of deep greenness. Every town has its classic examples of this truth, and so it is rather strange that these departures in the use of plant materials are not more frequently emulated.

In the north the sparges, vincas and ivies are well known groundcovers for deep, shady spots and on slopes that are subject to erosion we see Loniceras and climbing roses.

In tropical Florida we may indicate corresponding materials for similar effects. Though sparges may not be happy here, we have Liriope; instead of the trailing, vine-like vincas, we may use confederate jasmine in the deep shade; and those gardeners who have heavy soils are fortunate in that English Ivy, of multitudinous forms, is very much at home.

There is really little excuse for the all too numerous remarks that one hears to this effect: "I just can't grow grass under that oak tree." Don't try to grow grass under that oak tree; use another groundcover instead. Unless there is heavy foot traffic, several plants that we shall discuss are just as practical as grasses.

For a shady situation, Japanese snake's beard, Ophiopogon, is one of the best plants that is used to cover the ground. This grass-like member of the lily family is characterized by long, narrow, strap-shaped leaves of the darkest green. This herbaceous perennial will stand untold abuse, thriving in the worst possible conditions of drought and poor soil. Very hardy and happy in the deepest shade, Ophiopogon objects more to direct sunlight than to any other natural factor.

The plant is propagated by division of the old clumps. The units are set in their new locations at 6 to 12 inch intervals. Ophiopogon responds beautifully to adequate amounts of plant food and water.

Liriope is a close relative of the Japanese snake's beard that may be used in the same situations. It is a larger, coarser plant and the lilac flowers that it bears are more conspicuous and are of definite decorative value in the garden picture. All of the advantages that we ascribe to Ophiopogon may likewise apply to Liriope. There is a variegated form that may be used, perhaps, as an accent.

On heavy soils the varieties of English ivy, of which there are many, are employed with great effectiveness as groundcovers under trees. This ivy has a distinctive charm that is felt by everyone who visits the gardens where it is growing. Propagation and culture are easy; the only requirements seem to be partial shade, a heavy soil and a sufficiently cool winter to give the plant a distinct rest.

One thinks of the confederate jasmine as a vigorous woody vine, and hence its adaptability as a groundcover is often overlooked. When it is allowed to creep over the ground without vertical support, the Rhinocospermum creates a very charming and very substantial covering for the earth. During the spring, well-cared for specimens are smothered in the fragrant white blossoms that have made the confederate jasmine such a popular vine.

Nothing is easier to grow than the weeping lantana, and in certain situations it is very effective as a flowering groundcover.

The Madagascar periwinkle has found the Gulf Coast region so congenial that it has entrenched itself firmly in many localities as an escape from cultivation. As a self-sown annual we know of few things that can surpass the periwinkle in dependability. Because it is so happy in the lower South it has become common, and for this reason is despised by many people. It seems that the plant should be cherished for its adaptability to our climate rather than despised for it. As a cover for expansive sunny areas, the periwinkle is most highly recommended.

If there is a moist bank with mucky soil, perhaps in the shade part of the day, Wedelia trilobata will be worth trying. We have seen this prostrate herb, with blossoms like a small sunflower, growing in many different areas. It seems to be very cosmopolitan; happy in widely differing environments.

The beach morning glory is a native to our salt water shores that lends itself beautifully to landscape use. As a covering for the porous sands of our beaches, it is a most suitable plant material.

Ferns and fern allies are so popular and so widely used as groundcovers that they warrant no discussion.

It is hoped that this article will suggest certain plant materials that may be used to cover the earth's surface in places where the traditional lawn grasses are not successful or feasible for one reason or another.

Just a hint of what Florida's rich soil can produce without cultivation is found in this picture of lush tropical vegetation. Horticulturists and Botanists have found that a slight expenditure of energy and a few chemicals can work wonders in cultivated gardens.

Roses in the Florida Landscape

AS A PLANT DEMONSTRATES its adaptability in a new country so well that it naturalizes without aid from the hand of man, that plant deserves consideration when we plan our gardens. It seems to be a gardening tradition to seek the exotic, the unusual, the rare plants for one's garden, and this trait is commendable in that it sets one's garden above the commonplace, giving it distinction and charm. But all too often, in our seeking for the unusual, we overlook the very excellent plant material that is growing at our very doorsteps. These tried and true materials should be used as the firm foundations upon which the weaker growers, the temperamental garden plants, should be allowed to lean for stalwart support, it is suggested by John V. Watkins, assistant professor, horticulture, University of Florida.

The roses that inspire this tribute to dependable naturalized plant material are, of course, the Cherokee rose (Rosa laevigata), that native of China that has found a congenial home in Florida, and the Macartney rose (Rosa bracteata) that contributes so magnificently to the spring garden picture.

In addition to these naturalized oriental species, any garden-conscious person is well acquainted with certain other members of this great genus, Rosa, that, although not naturalizing themselves, show remarkable tenacity of life in our trying semi-tropical climate. First place in this class might be given to Yellow Banksian (Rosa banksiae). This robust, evergreen, thornless climber exhibits an adaptability that is positively astounding when one thinks of the very short lives of some of our most popular cutting varieties. An important position must be given, perhaps, to that comparative newcomer to Florida gardens, Belle of Portugal. This hybrid of Rosa Gigantea is almost assured of success in the deep South and the vigor with which it grows and the myriads of huge pink flowers that it produces each spring should satisfy the most critical of rosarians.

Next in this class of persistent garden roses for the lower South we might list the interesting Noisette group (Rosa noisettiana) which contains that long-time favorite, indispensable in every garden of the old South—shade-loving Marechal Niel. In this group that was originated by John Champney in Charleston we find also Reve d'Or and Lamarque, two other very tenacious varieties.

These rampant climbers and some of their descendants can be depended upon to contribute very definitely to the garden ensemble year after trying year, while cutting roses are succumbing to the ravages of blackspot, brown canker and the upsetting influences of light sandy soils and not enough rest. The rampant climbing forms, always excellent material for background for enframement and definition, are so well adapted to the Florida climate that they are very long-lived and seldom need replacing, while the temperamental bush hybrids that are demanded today for flower arrangements can be grown in closely planted beds in front of the climbers and discarded and replaced when necessary.

If the garden design calls for a fence or trellis one or more of the striking climbers can be trained on the structure. The planting interval should be about eight feet. Very often a vigorous vine can be used to climb up that narrow space on either side of the garage doors and, when tied to horizontal wires, it can be encouraged to cover, and thus soften and add a great deal of interest to the gable end. The yellow Banksian is beautifully adapted to this use.

Most of us have seen the delightful effect that can be attained by planting vigorous climbing roses by pine trees so that the canes may be secured to the tree trunks as they grow. Members of the Noisette group are charming when grown in this way.

One of the most popular of garden appurtenances is the combination gate and arbor with seats on either side. This structure, in its many variations, lends itself beautifully to the planting of attractive climbing roses. It shows them off well and it allows for their easy maintenance.

In a garden of formal design nothing is more attractive than pillar roses. Posts of material and color that reflect the feeling of the garden are set at strategic accent points, and on these posts are trained climbing roses. By judicious pruning and careful tying, these pillars are kept neat and compact and when in bloom the roses are very telling in the garden picture.

In the modern mode for white houses of brick or concrete block, some certain climbing forms are very effective components of the garden when they are grown espalier-wise against a garage wall.

A rose that persists in many older northern Florida towns is Marie van Houtte. This old fashioned tea rose assumes picturesque shapes, develops a great deal of character as the years pass and these old, gnarly plants are often used effectively in patio plantings. If they are selected and transplanted with forethought and care they can create a most attractive picture.

Bush roses in close bed formation should not be used in the foreground or as a main feature of the landscape plan. When the plants are dormant (modern cutting roses need a specific rest) and properly and closely pruned, they leave a great deal to be desired from an aesthetic point of view. Roses that are wanted for the house must be cut as the first or second petal unfurls, and this cutting of the immature flowers precludes any garden value that the rose plants might have.

For these reasons the writer believes that the rose bed should be in an enclosed portion of the grounds, preferably as a part of that screened utilitarian area that designers call the cutting garden.

CLASSIFICATION

Roses are ordinarily classified according to the original species from which they descended. The lineage has become so complex through years of hybridization that the classes overlap considerably, and no one can say definitely, for example, whether or not a modern cutting rose should fall into the Tea class rather than in the Pernetiana or the Hybrid Tea Classification. However, the list herewith presents the horticultural classification usually accepted by most students of rose pedigrees. This is intended for use by Florida gardeners and does not include many other groups of roses successfully grown in Northern states but of doubtful value in the Gulf Coast region.

TEA.—This class of garden roses is indigenous to the warmer parts of Asia and comprises many of the varieties most cherished in old gardens of the deep South. The plants are rather vigorous growers when good conditions are provided, although they are easily injured by low temperatures. The tea-scented flowers are usually of delightful form and exhibit a wide range of colors. Continuous blooming is characteristic of this group unless dormancy is induced by low temperatures. Among the best of the Tea roses for Florida might be listed the following well known varieties: Duchesse de Brabant, Lady Hillingdon, Mme. Lambard, Marie van Houtte, Minnie Francis and Safrano.

HYBRID TEA.—In this group is found the great majority of sorts that are offered to meet the present day demands for fancy cutting roses. Pedigrees of Hybrid Tea roses are very complex and varieties that really should fall into other classes are often placed in this group. Hybrid Tea roses are more nearly perpetual bloomers than are members of the Hybrid Perpetual group. They combine nearly all of the colors possible in the genus Rosa, are usually characterized by long pointed buds, strongly scented of tea. Some few of the scores of Hybrid Tea roses successfully grown in Florida gardens are Antoine Rivoire, Dainty Bess, Editor McFarland, Etoile de Hollande, President Hoover, the Radiances, Talisman and others.

PERNETIANA.—Is a term used to denote many of the highly colored roses originated by the great French hybridizer Pernet-Ducher. In this class the yellow pigment is occasioned by a strong infusion of blood of the Persian yellow rose. Generally speaking, Pernetiana roses are extremely short-lived in Florida.

NOISETTE.—John Champney originated this class of climbing roses in Charleston, South Carolina, early in the 19th century. Many have shown remarkable adaptability to conditions of the Lower South and some are closely associated with the charming ante-bellum gardens that have become so famous through restoration during the past decade. Chromatella, Marechal Niel, Lamarque, and Reve d'Or are members of the Noisette group.

POLYANTHA.—As the name implies, roses of this group bear many flowers in clusters. The plants are dwarf in habit, more or less everblooming, exhibiting a wide range of warm colors. For corsage use no rose can surpass Cecile Brunner, the Sweatheart rose. It is found listed in this Polyantha group along with Baby Rambler, Chatillon, Miss Edith Cavell, George Elger and Tip-Top.

HYBRID PERPETUAL.—Large flowers borne on stiff, upright stems characterize this class of garden roses. With the outstanding developments in the Hybrid Tea group, Hybrid Perpetuals are rapidly vanishing from the Florida scene. Practically the only survivor of this one-time great class of roses is Frau Karl Druschki. This old fashioned white flower is of such size and charming form and grace that it will be difficult to surpass as a white rose for cutting.

Winter Occupation of Grisons Peasants

ANYONE WHO HAS STAYED FOR A TIME in the mountain valleys of the Grisons, Switzerland, and became interested in the hard-working peasants, knows how fully their time is occupied from early spring, when they start to manure their fields, until late autumn, when the final crop of hay is cut and the cows are brought down from the Alps. We know about this work because we see it going on. "But what do these people do with themselves all through the long, dreary Winter?" is a question one sometimes hears. Surely the time must hang heavy on the hands of these active men and women who are now forced to spend many months indoors.

As a matter of fact there is always quite enough to do even in the cold season, as any peasant will point out to you; and if the life is slightly less strenuous than in summer, who will grudge a little extra repose and leisure to these toilers of the Alps, and who minds if Father sometimes dozes beside the stove with his quaint long pipe between his lips?

Let us first consider the occupations of the men. They of course still have the cows to look after, and must feed and milk them each day and keep the stable fresh and clean. And if, as is often the case, part of the milk is sold to a local dairy, the men have to take it to its destination in great cans loaded onto a sleigh: This is sometimes quite an adventure if the farm is remote and the snow lies deep.

Later in the winter, when the hay which is stored in the barn beside the stable is used up, there is a pilgrimage to the "Maiensass," the higher pasture where the cows will be taken in the month of May. From the lonely huts up here the hay is brought down. It is a weary climb, and hard work to dig out the hut from the piled-up snow around it. Then the hay is arranged and tied up in neat bundles, which are generally placed on a sledge, beneath the runners of which straw is laid so as to make the descent easier. If there is a road, a bullock or a horse is used to draw it; but in most cases the sledge is brought straight down the precipitous mountainside, guided in its wild career by men who sit on top. When there is a fast and well worn hay track, the fragrant bundles are sometimes brought down just as they are, without a sledge. Bump, bump, bump, bump they go, strewing the path with stray wisps and half-dried blossoms.

A lot of wood-cutting goes on in Winter, too, and the forests resound with the blows of the axe, whilst the timber finds its way down to the valley in the same manner as the packs of hay, sliding and slithering over the snow.

The mention of wood cutting reminds one of another daily winter task—that of chopping the fire-wood. No other fuel is used among the peasants, and most of us have marvelled at the symetrically arranged stacks of it beneath and around the windows of the chalets. As well as splitting up the wood, many of the male folk no doubt help in lighting and tending the stoves which have to be kept going in several rooms.

Winter, too, is the time for repairing the various agricultural implements which get damaged or broken during the summer; and the curious wooden rakes on which the hay is hung to dry are made or mended in winter. In olden days the men of the Grisons used in their leisure winter hours to make quaint wooden toys. But this custom has long since died out.

As for the women, they always find more than enough to do. They take advantage of being indoors more to bake great batches of bread, cake and biscuits, especially around Christmas and New Year. Many of the homemade sausages, and the famous dried meat known as "Bindenfleisch" are prepared and smoked and dried during the winter. The great white cabbages or "Kabis" are chopped up and made into Sauerkraut soon after the first snowfall. Then, when cooking and housework are finished for the day, out comes the workbasket, and all sorts of wonderful patches are put on breeches, shirts and other garments that have long awaited attention; or else the knitting needles flash and the thick warm stockings grow apace. In many homes the grey "Bundnertuch" (Grisons cloth) is spun afterwards being sent away to be woven, ready to make up into the homespun suits we often see the peasants wearing. In the village of Santa Maria, in the Grisons valley of Munstertal, a school for weaving has been started, to which the women and girls from the Engadine and other parts of the Canton come to learn how to make coarse linen for table cloths, napkins, cushion covers and so on, and this is now becoming quite popular.

Since winter days at Zuoz in the Upper Engadine, Switzerland, are bright with sunshine, the women attend to their laundry work quite cheerfully, at the village fountain.

When winter comes to the Bernese Oberland, Switzerland, the peasants get busy with special sleds to transport their lumber to the valley.

Winter days are long in the Kiental, Bernese Oberland, Switzerland, and since fuel must be gotten in the lofty alpine forests, the peasant pictured herewith has availed himself of the first snowfall to transport a supply of pine branches down on his herdsman's sled.

enough to each other, many a pleasant winter evening party takes place. Neighbors drop in for a friendly game of "Jass," the popular Swiss card game and a glass of Veltliner, or better still a piping hot "Gluhwein." Or the young people come together and sing part songs to the accompaniment of an accordion, or sometimes even hold a little dance. A favorite winter occupation of the youths and maidens is love-making and it is astonishing how many engagements are announced at this time of the year!

As a general rule we may be sure that "Early to bed and early to rise" is the Swiss mountain peasants' motto in winter as well as in summer. For the cattle must be seen to and the stoves lighted in the cold darkness of early dawn; and if there are children they have to set off to school at an early hour. So, as the lamps give but a feeble light and the day begins so early, everyone is glad to turn in betimes to sound repose beneath the mountainous feather-cover!

Diversified Entertainment in Palm Beach

Cosmopolitan Palm Beach continues to offer to its international visitors from two continents, a marvelously diversified programme of entertainment and diversions. Several exclusive clubs present a continuity of gala events, for the visitor to the world's most famous winter gathering spot, and everything from sparkling night life to sports activities are on tap in a lovely tropical setting.

With the Everglades Club staging such outstanding gala nights as the recent "Back to the Farm Ball" and the forthcoming "Rule Britannia Ball", the Seminole Club presenting a series of gala golf events similar to the annual Tombstone Tournament and other colorful outdoor programmes, the Bath and Tennis Club with its daily beach parties, and the host of club activities found in the resort, the visiting socialite finds never a dull moment in his daily social and sports schedule.

Even a bit of high-goal polo is on tap, with such international stars as Winston Guest, Michael Phipps, Stewart Iglehart, Cecil Smith and other world-famous players participating in fast, colorful matches at Phipps Field just south of Palm Beach.

Tennis finds the Everglades Club's immaculately groomed courts, the Bath and Tennis Club's championship settings and many other splendid tennis backgrounds simply teeming with life and color this season, with many of the nation's finest amateurs playing in the various tournaments.

Golf a la Seminole, the Country Club, the Everglades Club, the Gulf Stream and other famous island golf courses, continues to appeal to both socialite and celebrity in Palm Beach.

Many choose to go to the dogs after dark, with the Palm Beach Kennel Club as the background for a number of the resort's visitors, who drop out to witness the fast, exciting card of races held at this popular track each night.

In the night life of the colony are found such world famous gathering spots as the Patio, the Pelican, South Ocean Club, the Breakers Hotel Terrace, the Cascades Lounge at the Biltmore, Whitehall's after dark settings, and of course the Everglades Club for the members and guests of this exclusive club.

Palm Beach's miles of immaculately groomed beachfront along the Atlantic is one of the most popular backgrounds in the colony, with a host of sun-worshippers enjoying the rays of the sun and a frolic in the breakers.

The always-refreshing
BACARDI
COCKTAIL

It's tart...it's smart...the incomparable Bacardi Cocktail...always correct...and always welcome...at every season...and for every occasion. Be sure to make it correctly:

The Famous Recipe in Rhyme:

A LITTLE SOUR,

(Juice of half a lime)

A LITTLE SWEET,

(1/2 teaspoonful of sugar)

THE TROPIC SUN,

(A jigger of BACARDI RUM)
 (White or Silver Label)

WITHOUT THE HEAT!

(Ice and shake well)

(When grenadine is used instead of sugar, it's a Bacardi Grenadine Cocktail, and it comes out pink!)

CAUTION: When you order a BACARDI Cocktail remember that it MUST be made with BACARDI RUM. (N. Y. Supreme Court, April 28, 1936)

Use BACARDI White Label, from Cuba, world's finest rum... or BACARDI Silver Label, Puerto Rico's finest, at a popular price.

ARE HAND-LOOMED FABRICS SUPERIOR TO MACHINE-LOOMED?

EARLY in the 17th century there was set up in the City of Danzig a "rare invention for the weaving of four or five webs at one time without human help." The historian further records that "the invention was suppressed because it would prejudice the people, and the artist was made away with secretly."

Even today the prejudice persists that in fabric-weaving the "hand-made" product is best. But the real truth is that the hand-craftsman, even beyond his limitations of slow and costly production, cannot compete with the motorized loom in the very instances in which he is supposed to excel; namely, quality, uniformity of weave, purity of color, variety and elaborateness of design.

No human hand, for example, possesses the actual strength to draw the weft threads of a complicated pattern through the warp with the evenness and regularity which is the measure of the fabric's wearing qualities. Whereas the machine, with its perfect uniformity of weave, avoids disastrous breaking down at unexpected points of a fabric otherwise in good condition.

Further, the continuous and expensive research and experiment which produces perfect dyes and superb raw materials is far beyond the resources of the average hand-craftsman. And the designer who achieves international distinction gravitates naturally to the manufacturer who offers most worthy interpretation of his designs and most lucrative rewards for his genius.

Only in his high artistic standards and maintenance of the great traditions of the master-weavers of the past can the hand-craftsman claim superiority to the average motorized loom. But at the mills of Scalaman-dré, these standards and traditions are jealously guarded by weavers whose fathers and forefathers have for generations been masters of their art in America and the Old World; and in addition to their pride and probity, equally high as that of any hand-weaver, these craftsmen are given the tremendous advantages of modern science and invention, of endless research and experiment, to aid them in producing the super-fabrics—the heirlooms of tomorrow—that are Scalaman-dré Silks.

For the convenience of those who wish to obtain the characteristic effect produced by the hand-loom, Scalaman-dré maintains not only those producing plain fabrics, but also rarely found jacquard hand-looms, and even looms for the making of broche fabrics. The latter we believe to be the only broche hand-looms in America.

The Sun never sets on

It gives you a deep sense of satisfaction when you order a drink "made with Gilbey's Gin" to realize that at the very same minute other men who know fine liquors are sitting at far-away windows with that same familiar Gilbey's bottle beside them. For nearly a century now, the sun has never set on Gilbey's Gin . . . because millions of men have found, as you will, too, that Gilbey's makes a great drink greater!

DID YOU SAY
JAMAICA RUM?

BY ALL MEANS!

Try Jamaica's "Favorite Five"

JAMAICA HIGHBALL

One of the most popular and refreshing Rum drinks. Pour a dash of Jamaica Rum over a few cubes of ice and add a splash of Dry Ginger Ale. Also delightful when mixed with Soda.

JAMAICA COCKTAIL

One half cocktail glass of Jamaica Rum and an equal measure of sweet Vermouth; add plenty of cracked ice, stir well and enjoy a new and fascinating Jamaica Rum Cocktail.

JAMAICA PUNCH

One part lime juice; two parts sugar or syrup; three parts Jamaica Rum; four parts water (in warm climate three parts water and lots of cracked ice). Shake well. Serve immediately.

JAMAICA NOG

Mix one part sweetened condensed milk with an equal portion of Jamaica Rum; shake well with cracked ice, serve with a cherry and you have a most delicious short drink.

JAMAICA COLLINS

Mix one part of lime juice, two parts of sugar or syrup, four parts of Jamaica Rum and an equal measure of Soda Water. Add cracked ice, stir briskly, drink through a straw.

THE ROYALTY OF

Rums

The victories at sea, the coronations of a dozen queens and kings—all the great events that marched in Britain's cavalcade of years—have been toasted in JAMAICA rum. Today the connoisseur—choosing "light" for cocktails and highballs and "dark" for punches and noggs—specifies JAMAICA even more emphatically than ever. Yet their costs are lower than those of comparably fine imported whiskies and brandies.

Cottage Colony Society Life

EVIDENCE THAT PALM BEACH'S winter residents and visitors have learned from previous experience that March and early April are the loveliest months on the tropical calendar is found in the blossoming out of the cottage colony in a series of attractive parties, with social activity in the island's manses at a new high. For every party given during the months of January and February there appear to be at least two on schedule for March.

The long unrecognized fact that March, April and May are by far the most attractive months in Palm Beach from both a weather and scenic standpoint, is bringing about a complete revolution in the winter resident's conception of the season in the world's leading winter resort, with this colorful island now the background for house parties that begin early in the season and oftentimes last well into May.

Year-round residents are becoming accustomed to the sight of informally clad winter visitors dashing about Palm Beach long after the supposed season has winged its way into the limbo of forgotten events, and sea-side castles continue to blaze with lights and color through the fragrant, lovely months of spring.

Not the least of the charm that is keeping so many of the smart set in Palm Beach beyond the recognized months is found in the gorgeous tropical blooms that the mid-season visitor cannot even conceive during his brief tenure here.

Thousands of trees, flowers and shrubs shed their drab protective coloring and take on a brilliance that must be seen to be believed. The huge, sprawling Poinciana trees, the enormous spreading Banyans and countless other trees that are simply picturesque during the winter months, are flaming torches of unbelievable colors during the spring months, and tropical vines and shrubbery take on all the hues of the rainbow to make Palm Beach the most beautiful spot in America during their blossoming period.

Entertaining in sun-kissed patios amid the fragrance of jasmine and the riot of color that is Palm Beach in the spring is fast becoming a must on many of the international set's social calendar, with the bleak north failing to lure the bronzed resorter away from his idyllic existence in the semi-tropics, until much later in the season.

One of this month's most important and interesting social functions in the cottage colony was the recent "Paderewski Testimonial Concert," which was held at Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury's sea-side mansion under the auspices of the National Executive Committee of the Paderewski Testimonial, an organization devoted to furthering the great patriot and musician's plan to raise funds for the Polish refugees.

Richard Crooks, noted tenor, flew down to Palm Beach to sing at this popular benefit affair and return to his engagements at the Metropolitan Opera House the following day. Over two hundred of the social colony were in attendance, with Mr. Paderewski making his sole appearance since his arrival in the resort.

Another important musical event is scheduled for still later in March, with the always distinctive St. Agnes Guild program, presenting lovely Mme. Desi Halban-Kurz, who will be the house guest of Col. and Mme. Jacques Balsan, as the stellar attraction of their concert, which will be given this year at the beautiful ocean-front villa of Mr. Joseph E. Widener on March 26th.

Last season's concert by Miss Doris Doe, noted Metropolitan contralto, which was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, was one of the musical highlights of the cottage colony season, and this year's appearance of the beautiful and talented soprano, Mme. Halban-Kurz is expected to rate among the outstanding musical events of 1941.

Mme. Halban-Kurz is being brought to Palm Beach for the St. Agnes Guild Concert, by the internationally famous party-giver and master of ceremonies Elsa Maxwell, who suggested her for this concert.

According to Miss Maxwell, this lovely soprano is one of the most talented singers in the world today and possesses a voice of exceptional beauty. She has sung before the crowned heads of Europe and is known to the international set in Palm Beach as an outstanding artist on the Continent.

Patrons and Patronesses for this musical event include Col. Jacques Balsan and Mme. Balsan, Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stirling Vanderbilt, Mrs. John S. Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rutherford, Mrs. Wesson Seyburn, Mrs. James Norman Hill, Mrs. J. Jay O'Brien, Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman, Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse, Mrs. Diana Guest, Mrs. Henry Robinson Rea, Miss Carolyn Trippe, Mrs. Charlton Yarnall, Mrs. Margaret Emerson, Mrs. Eric Loder, Mrs. Paul Moore, Mrs. Earle Perry Charlton, Mrs. William Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Howes, Hon. Frederick E. Guest, Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard, Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, Mrs. Jessie Donahue, Mrs. Robert Huntington, Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld, Mrs. Peter Widener, Mr. Milton Holden, Mr. John R. Buchanan, Dr. Edmund LeRoy Dow, Mr. Atwater Kent.

Among the many interesting parties given in the Cottage Colony recently was Mr. and Mrs. Theodore De Long Buhl's cocktail gathering for a number of their friends. Their island home was the setting for an attractive party given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Ringling North of Sarasota, Florida. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. George Stevenson Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. James Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Coe, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Molitore, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Quinn, Mrs. Christian Henry Buhl, Mrs. Wesson Seyburn, Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Boyer, Mrs. Joseph Frazer, Mr. M. R. Page Hufty, Mr. Al Jolson, Mr. Pierre Barbey, Jr., and Mr. John Carney.

Colonel and Mme. Jacques Balsan were dinner hosts to eighteen members of the cottage colony recently at their unique island home, which is one of the show places of the Palm Beach area. Their party was given in honor of their house guest Countess Chlabowska of Poland.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shepard, Jr., gave an interesting party at their Dunbar Road residence "Casa del Pastor," recently. A "Singing Dinner" complimenting the Archduke Franz Josef and the Princess Marta proved one of the most entertaining events of the cottage colony this season.

Guests who enjoyed the singing of Peppino and his trio included Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Howes, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Howes Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. J. Terry West, the Hon. Frederick M. Sackett and Mrs. Sackett, Mr. and Mrs. D. Dulany Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Morin S. Hare, Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard, Mrs. Charles O. Parsons.

Also Mrs. George Luke Mesker, Mrs. More-Molyneaux, Mrs. Maeda Wallace, Madam Le Juene, Countess de Narkiewicz-Jodka, Mrs. Emerson Buckley, Mrs. Pauline Burke Carr, Dr. Edmund LeRoy Dow, Marquis George McDonald, Col. Owen H. Kenan, Mr. Lanfear Norrie, Mr. John D. H. Harrison, Mr. Arthur Bradley Campbell, Mr. Channing Hare, Mr. George Angue Dobyne and Mr. Mortimer Markowski.

Mrs. Benjamin Rogers gave an attractive luncheon party recently at "Thatchcote," her South County Road residence, in compliment to Mrs. Helen Appleton Reed. Mrs. Reed addressed a group at the Society of the Four Arts later in the afternoon.

Guests included Mrs. Rogers' house guest, Mrs. John Sloan; also Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Alworth, Mr. and Mrs. John Moffatt, Mr. and Mrs. LeRay Berdeau, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glasgow, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gannett, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel J. McCarthy, Mrs. Newell Tilton, Mrs. Frederick Johnson, Mrs. Walter O. Briggs, Miss Briggs, Mrs. Oscar Solbert, Mrs. Eleanor Tuck, Mrs. Clary Tuckerman, Mrs. Clarence Wheatland, Dr. Edmund LeRoy Dow, Mr. Phillip Giddens, Mr. Arthur Bradley Campbell, Mr. George Schlee, Mr. Seth Sprague, Mr. Leicester Spaulding, Mr. J. Robert Hewitt and others.

A truly tropical setting frames the smart Everglades Club apartments, with an engaging view of the tennis courts making these lovely resort residences the ideal Palm Beach home. Just one of the many beautiful backgrounds found in a stroll through the grounds of the Everglades Club.

THE APPROACHING FINAL PHASE of the 1941 season finds the Palm Beach Biltmore well filled with resorters and with an imposing docket of reservations in order for the remaining weeks of March.

More than thirty members of the Anglers' division of the New York Athletic Club are this week making their headquarters at the Biltmore, while completing an informal golf program at the Palm Beach Country Club and a schedule of deep sea fishing that has occupied most of their time. Headed by Colonel Eugene McK Froment of New York and Fort Meyers, Fla., the group has been in residence since Friday and will conclude its annual winter meeting March 14th.

His Eminence, the Cardinal Archbishop of Boston Wil-

RKO-Radio, Hollywood, and his crew while they made movies of the luxurious tropical gardens surrounding the hotel and the lovely Jardin Royal where celebrities from all over the world gather during the popular daily Cocktail Hour.

The movies will be used as a background for Ronald Coleman's next picture "My Life with Caroline," originally named "Palm Beach Limited," which will be directed by Lewis Milestone. Mr. Perry was assisted by the official photographer for the Doherty properties in Palm Beach, Jerry de Santis.

Other scenes which will be in the movie were taken on various estates in Palm Beach, a view from the Flagler bridge with Whitehall in the background; palm-shaded Lake Drive liam H. O'Connell, dean of the American Hierarchy, recently completed a stay at the Biltmore and returned to his winter quarters at the Miami Biltmore. Accompanying him were the Right Reverend Monsignor M. J. Splaine and the Right Reverend Monsignor J. F. Minihan of Boston.

Prominent figures of the stage, screen and radio have stopped at the Biltmore within the past fortnight, foremost among them being Major Edward Bowes of the Major Bowes Amateur radio hour, Miss Luise Rainer and Frances Lederer, of the motion pictures, Phil Baker, George Jessel, George Givott and Hal LeRoy of the stage and radio.

Late arrivals include Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Stanford, Mr. and Mrs. James Hilton, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Forst, Mrs. E. W. Sinclair, Mrs. Alfred Cann, Mr. Lawrence Smith Butler, Mr. John Montgomery and Dr. Lewis Fischer, New York.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crock and their daughter, Miss Bette Crock, Greensburg, Pa., who are passing their fourth season at the Biltmore, Mr. and Mrs. John H. French, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Thompson, Bronxville, and Senator and Mrs. Thomas Mathis, Toms River, N. J., all of whom are here for an extended visit.

The Cascades Lounge and Bar is this season attracting capacity gatherings during the Cocktail Dansant and after dinner dance hours and has been the scene of considerable entertaining this past week. Completing a return engagement there have been the ever popular mystic, Myrus, always a favorite with his large Palm Beach following, Miss Ruth Landi, whose charming personality and splendid talent have made her one of the resort's outstanding performers and the capable concert artist Michael Harmon, lyric baritone. Master of ceremonies and director of the Biltmore music program this season as last has been Paul Sparr, whose orchestra may be heard nightly in the Cascades Lounge and at the Sunday Evening Concert Series.

The second informal evening party of the season will take place Saturday night, March 15th, in the Muleteer Grill in celebration of St. Patrick's Day with the customary favors and entertainment feature in keeping with the Irish theme.

Whitehall visitors were entertained extemporaneously last week-end by Harry Perry, director of photography for for a bicycle sequence, the Palm Beach Country Club, Royal Palm Way, Worth Avenue and other streets.

Mr. Perry has just arrived from Key West and Haiti where he took backgrounds for other pictures soon to be in the making. While working on backgrounds for "Rebecca," near Monte Carlo, France, his French crew was drafted into the French army and his automobile was taken from him. The backgrounds had to be faked in Monterey, Cal.

"Evening in Ermine," an all-white extravaganza of formal fur fashions by Leaf, Whitehall furriers, was the highlight of last Saturday's gala at sumptuous Whitehall. A decorative setting of white including great white satin curtains, gardenia lanterns and white candles and gardenias on each table was a luxurious background for the women guests, most of whom wore white gowns with white furs for the occasion.

A gorgeous collection of diamonds was shown by Roy W. Johnston and the coiffures and make-up were by Elizabeth Arden. As a finale for the fashion show, Miss Kay Irwin, Whitehall model, wore a magnificent white coronation robe, formerly worn by the Empress of Russia from the collection of the Hammer Galleries. In the style of the 1890's with a graceful train, the entire dress is embroidered in 22-karat gold thread.

The entertainment began with an exhibition waltz by the Arthur Murray group, followed by "Sonny" Tufts singing "Our Love," a romantic melody based on the music of Tchaikowsky and other romantic songs of today. The Callahan Sisters, fast dancing starlets, closed the program. Niki Raymond and his orchestra, played for the dancing.

Warm weather greeting the resort once more afforded guests of the Vineta the opportunity of enjoying the west patio for luncheons and the east gardens for a period of sun.

When cool breezes prevail the heated lounge of the Vineta is most popular, with bridge and games being enjoyed and dinner dancing offered in the beautifully appointed dining room.

A number of arrivals have joined the New England colony at the Vineta including, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Fallon of Boston, Mr. J. E. Murley, Newton Center, Mass., Mr. Frank Craven, Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Arthur Clark, New Haven, Conn.

Other arrivals at the Vineta include Mr. William Isdale Oakford of Rye, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Hamilton and Mrs. A. L. Piel of Indianapolis.

Others registered were Mrs. E. Sterling Carter, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Smith, Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. Blanche Alexander, Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Oliver, Oak Park, Ill.; Mrs. Frank O'Brien and Mrs. L. C. Partridge, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Thompson and Mr. Harris B. Thompson of Brookline, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Edgar McKaigh and Miss Marjorie McKaigh, all of Radnor, Pa.

Baltimore arrivals included the Misses Cecilia Gordon Bowdoin, Elinor Bowdoin and Francis Kenny Goodwin; also, Mr. and Mrs. W. Howard Pancoast of Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Van Tassel of Bloomfield, N. J.

Many guests attended the Everglades Tombola luncheon. Those having parties were Mrs. Charles Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mancill, Mrs. Lawrence Nelson, Jr., Miss Louisa Bensen, Mrs. H. W. Kingsbury, Mrs. H. B. Reynolds, Mrs. Harry Thomas Jordan.

Dinner and luncheon parties in the lovely circular dining room of The Breakers, famed resort hotel which is filled to capacity with winter visitors, feature a gay round of entertaining. Tea and cocktail parties in Cocoanut Grove, Palm Beach's most popular tea time rendezvous, continue to attract hundreds of hotel and cottage colonists daily.

Mrs. George Seymour Ryton, president and national chairman of American Friends of Britain, Inc., gave a luncheon last week at The Breakers to honor Sir George and Lady Bettsworth-Piggott. Others present were Major and Mrs. Marcellus Gallop, Mrs. George Pierce Butler, Mrs. James Martin White, Mrs. Scott Callingham, Mr. Larry Hogan, Mr. Howard Shelley, and Mr. John Cyrus Distler.

Mr. Raymond G. Noble was host at luncheon in the circular dining room to Mrs. George Luke Mesker, Mr. and Mrs. Morin S. Hare, Mrs. More-Molyneux, and Mr. Lanfear Barbey Norris.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Morgan of Newton, Mass., were hosts at dinner one evening to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Carney and Dr. and Mrs. William Cook. Others entertaining at dinner included Mrs. Henry Pope, Mrs. Norman F. Mack, and Mr. and Mrs. Anson M. Clough.

Mr. and Mrs. William MacNeill were hosts at dinner to Mrs. Charles Randle, Mrs. Guy Randle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Kolb, Mrs. Uhler, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hermann, and Mr. Mario di Tullio.

Among dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Farr were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Waelder, Dr. and Mrs. Murray Dorrance and Mrs. Edward Wilson.

Mrs. Clinton Brockway of Middletown, Conn., and Mrs. Robert B. Kernohan of Salem, Ohio, were dinner guests one evening of Miss G. B. Whittemore.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Friendly entertained at cocktails to honor Mr. John S. McCarrens, publisher of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Mr. Friendly is business manager of the New York Sun.

Mrs. Roy R. Lockhart was hostess to a group at tea in Cocoanut Grove, which included Mrs. George Donaldson, Mrs. Anthony Traina, Mrs. Harry M. Chandler, Mrs. Clifford Lilley, Mrs. Aldo Ormenia, Mrs. Robert H. Kennedy, Mrs. Monte Tennes, Mrs. August Pieper, Mrs. Henry J. Hinde, Mrs. Richard C. Crowley, Mrs. Thomas J. Shaw, Mrs. Amadeo P. Giannini, and Mrs. George Burbank.

Mrs. John Gould Fowler and Mrs. Ashton C. Jones of Arlington, Va., were together and Mr. and Mrs. Mark W. Cresap had a small group. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Rorer of Sea Gull cottage came with Mr. Guy Martin.

Fashion Fads & Fancies

A FOOT WITH FASHION! Shoes are getting more feminine and colorful in styling—not only the sandals designed for resort wear, but the newest arrivals with a forward look toward Spring!

Newer than the popular wedgies are the clever multi-colored suede sandals with scooped heels—grand companions for slacks or general sports wear. In the same category, Polynesian Pet—three-piece play outfit in Hawaiian print cotton. The bra, shorts and full skirt in native brown or green with huge white flowers. Mary Lewis, 647 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

are the wide-straped (almost barefoot) sandals, fashioned of bright or subdued tones in suede. Either of these are smart color accents for both all-white or dark sports and spectator ensembles.

All-white and white trimmed with navy or luggage tan, continue to hold a prominent place in the resort style shoe picture! Very chic are the white buck medium-heeled pumps with square heels and toes in contrasting colors.

Bows, all types and sizes of bows, adorn pumps and sandals for afternoon wear! To harmonize with the feminized Spring fashions; so much a part of all the newest stylings throughout the wardrobe. White suede, high-heeled sandals, with bright-colored bows, sole edge and heel lifts, are as strikingly smart as they are new.

Red shoes, part of the South American influence in fashion, are a must in the Spring wardrobe. Palm Beach shops have them in numerous attractive versions—high, low and medium heels; pumps and sandals!

Interesting sandals in very narrow bands of vari-colored suede, are the epitome of chic and can serve the dual role of afternoon and evening footwear. As the main spot of color for white or dark costumes, or to echo the colors of a gay print—these sandals are the correct fashion answer!

This is a season of glitter and sparkle, when precious jewels are a must in the formal evening mode! The necklace illustrated above, noted for simple and distinctive elegance, is composed of a single strand of ten-carat solitaires; an unusual treatment of diamonds this winter! The four diamond roses which form a beautiful accent for the high pompadour, are four separate clips, which may be worn in numerous ways on the evening gown; clipped to a velvet band for a bracelet; or, to decorate the lapels of the Spring tailleur. Both are from the salon of Frank S. Hartley, Worth Avenue.

Many striking costumes were noted at the Kiwanis "night of stars" at the Paramount Theatre! A bright gold kid trench coat of fingertip length caused a lot of interesting comment; it was worn by Mrs. N. Marshall Seeburg, over a light blue chiffon bouffant gown. Mrs. R. Stuyvesant Pierrepont, was also in light blue—topped by a sable jacket.

Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard, wore a gay print gown; dark and bright colors in a smart pattern. Short jacket of sables.

Another pale blue dress was that of Mrs. Byron Chandler—topped with a silver fox jacket.

Mrs. T. Preston Davis was very smart in a black lace creation and a silver fox jacket.

Miss Joy Plummer looked very smart in a bright red and white print, with a silver fox jacket.

Mrs. Frank C. Henderson was gowned in a stunning black lace gown, rhinestone sandals and a chic silver fox jacket.

Mrs. George Stevenson Fenton wore a subdued orange dinner dress, topped with a white ermine jacket.

Dancing at the Beach Club one recent evening—Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., dressed in a stunning black lace creation, featuring new style details.

Mrs. James P. Donahue looked very cool and chic, the other day, shopping on Worth Avenue. Her frock was a beautiful shade of medium blue with gold buttons and a gold insignia on the sleeve.

Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, also strolling down Worth Avenue, one recent sunny afternoon—wearing one of the amusingly smart tattoo print over-blouses and blue flannel slacks.

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy is wearing one of the most striking beach dresses noted in Palm Beach this season—a daring black linen of intricate styling, flaunting one bare shoulder!

For one of the Patio gala evenings, Mrs. Amory Haskell was very smart in a carnation print gown—bright red and white color theme. Mrs. Hugh Dillman, noted at the Patio the same evening, wearing an unusual creation—red and chartreuse bodice with flaring skirt of black crepe.

Mrs. Jack Dean (Fannie Ward), wearing her favorite shade of light blue—a gleaming silver and blue lame; also dancing at the Patio.

The Everglades Club Tombola-Luncheon-Fashion Show, always attracts a large number of well-dressed women. Noted at a recent affair: Mrs. Fontaine LeMaistre, in a very sleek and smart off-white spectator sports frock, with matching hat.

Mrs. George C. Van Dusen, wearing a turquoise blue crepe dress and matching swagger hat of suede.

Mrs. Charles B. Long, in a medium blue frock and hat—accented with coral; flowers on the smart hat and embroidery on the pockets of the spectator sports frock.

Princess Eristavi, very charming in a pale pink costume.

Frieda Hempel, in a smart red print frock, and a very wide white straw hat, with black velvet trimming.

Dining at the Chambord one evening, Mrs. Harrison Williams, gowned in dull black crepe, accented with lingerie touches. Mrs. Williams seems to be going in for black in a big way this season!

Mrs. Nicolas Embiricos, looked very dashing on a recent shopping jaunt on Worth Avenue. She was wearing her favorite daytime costume, slacks; a white slacks suit topped with a bright red corduroy jacket and matching sports shoes of suede.

The last week of racing at Hialeah brought out a number of chic beige costumes: Mrs. Carnegie Phipps in a tailored suit and Mrs. Peter Widener in a smart two-piece frock.

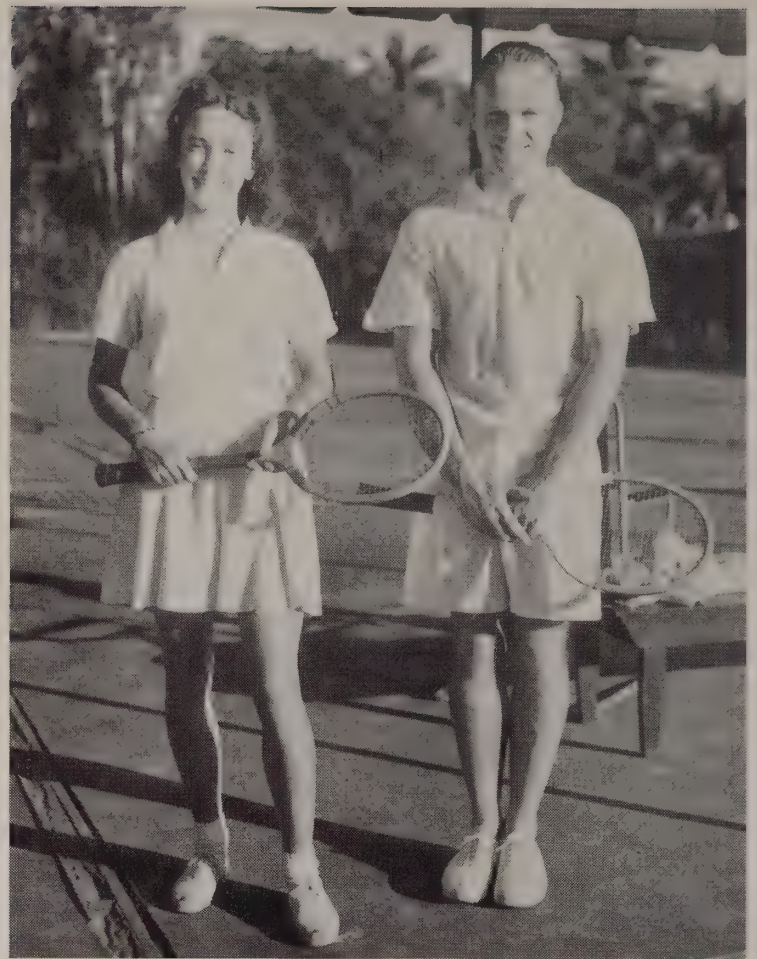

Star-studded print cotton pinafore that buttons down the back and has a wonderful swing to the skirt. Under it a complete white pique playsuit, useful for badminton, tennis or what will you. Mary Lewis, 647 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Tournament - Tennis and Golf

CLIMAX OF THE WINTER SPORTS SEASON was reached last week with golf, tennis and even baseball occupying the forefront of outdoor activities in the resort. Outstanding events on the week's sports calendar included the Annual Men's Championship at the Palm Beach Golf Club, the Annual Invitational Tennis Tournament at the Everglades Club, the New Jersey Seniors' tourney at the Palm Beach Country Club, and the Thirty-First Annual Society Baseball Game for the benefit of the Palm Beach Police Pension Fund.

Smiley Quick, sharpshooting Los Angeles and West Palm Beach golfer led the field in the medal round of the Annual Men's Championship over the Palm Beach Golf Club to whittle five strokes from the club par for a 65 and establish a new course record for the recently renovated golf club layout.

Quick was out in 32, three under par and came back in 33, two under club figures to chalk up his brilliant score. Tommy Goodwin, well known New York and Palm Beach golfer, equalled par for a 70 to finish second while Briggs Cunningham of Greens Farms, Conn., chalked up a 73.

Quick made birdies on the first, sixth and seventh holes and par on the others for his 32, coming home with three more birdies on the 14th, 15th and 17th. He went over on the 16th for the only hole of the round when he was short on his second and pitched over the green.

He carded a birdie on the first when he sank a nine footer, and took the sixth with a three when his drive landed just short of the green. On the seventh he put his second shot within two feet of the pin for a three, using a six-iron.

He tallied a sub-par four on the 460-yard 14th, nearly making it a three when his recovery from a sliced second shot hopped into the cup and hopped right out again.

On the 215-yard 15th he drove a three-iron shot within three feet of the pin for a birdie two, losing the only hole of the round on the 16th when his approach pitched over the green. To climax the sensational performance he holed out a 10-footer for a birdie three on the final green.

It took 82 or better to make the championship division with two flights of sixteen starting match play.

Summary, qualifying scores:

Smiley Quick, West Palm Beach, 32-33—65; Tommy Goodwin, Palm Beach, 36-34—70; Briggs S. Cunningham, Greens Farms, Conn., 36-37—73; Paul G. Cushman, Greenville, S. C., 36-40—76; J. H. McClain, Palm Beach, 38-39—77; John Cushman, Palm Beach, 36-41—77; David G. Legget, Pelham, N. Y., 37-40—77; A. K. Wylie, Winnetka, Ill., 39-39—78; J. F. Shaw, Bedford, N. Y., 39-39—78; W. J. ARCHDUKE OTTO AND PRINCESS MARTA were recent visitors at the South Ocean Club, dropping in for cocktails and late supper. On the same evening, Woolworth Donahue was at the club with some friends for cocktails. Also noted having cocktails that afternoon were Mrs. Daniel Du-lany Hunter and Capt. Alastair Mackintosh.

A delightful birthday dinner party in honor of their daughter, Miss Gertrude Webb, was given by Mr. and Mrs. William Seward Webb. Attractively arranged flower combinations decorated the table, and among the guests were Miss Kay Kauffman, Miss Mary Kaye, Miss Mildred Helm, Mr. William L. Carpenter and Mr. William Koch. Don Ferrara's orchestra provided the music for dancing during the gay birthday party.

A luncheon party was given by Mrs. Ethel Montgomery Broadwater for Mrs. Evelyn McL. Gray, Mrs. Peyton Van Rensselaer, Mrs. George Seymour Repton and Mme. Radeenski of Poland. Mrs. Repton is chairman of the American Friends of Britain.

Another interesting luncheon party was given by Mrs. Oscar Godson Davies, whose guests included Mrs. Henry Kohl, Mrs. Olaf Nelson Tevander, Mrs. Amanda Siegel, Mrs. Joseph Paterno, Mrs. Roscoe Tate Anthony, Mrs. William Watt, Jr., Mrs. Neil C. Drake, Miss Susan Glorieux, Miss Ann Freeman and Miss Marion Freeman. Following luncheon, bridge tables were arranged in the attractive Nautical Room, where the members of Mrs. Davies' party passed the balance of the afternoon.

The gay old Vienna celebrated in song and story has been recaptured at Mayerling, the delightful new restaurant in the resort. Here members of the international set, who think with nostalgia of the old pre-war days, find the authentic atmosphere of the original Mayerling which is a compliment to their educated tastes.

The unique Viennese cuisine which is a specialty at this charming spot has attracted many of the island resorters. The menus are planned with zest, each delectable dish a certain cure for jaded appetites.

There have been numerous interesting dinner parties at Mayerling recently. Mrs. Pamela de Montandouin was hostess to an interesting party honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Moffat. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Gilmour, Mrs. Thomas S. Kelly, Mr. J. Robert Hewitt and Mr. John Cyrus Distler. Mrs. Frederick Helier lunched there with Mr. Paul Sinclair.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. McKim were dinner hosts to Miss Madelaine Chambers and Miss Sally Symington. Mr. and Mrs. Donald McNair were a recent twosome. Mrs. Van Lear Black and her house guest, Mrs. Carver Havemeyer, dined with friends.

Mr. J. A. Peter Strassburger is a frequent host at Mayerling. Mr. and Mrs. Guy A. Thomas, recently returned to the resort, dined together. Mr. and Mrs. Sedgwick Minot entertained a small party as did Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Royal and Mr. William de Rham. Mr. and Mrs. C. Egerton Warburton were a dinner twosome at Mayerling recently.

Providing an attractive setting for numerous smart resort parties is the Chambord, whose name is synonymous with the finest in French cuisine.

The restaurant's Patio Vert, with its cool shade, and the Sidewalk Cafe, overlooking the park-centered Royal Poinciana Way, are equally popular for luncheon parties. The lounge is filled daily with cocktail groups and the baronial dining hall where, on chilly evenings, a huge log fire burns brightly, is the scene of many dinner parties.

The garden luncheons held on Fridays in conjunction with the Palm Beach Garden Club tours of resort estates for the benefit of British War Relief have found favor with out of town visitors as well as Palm Beach colonists. Mrs. A. L. Flynn came up from the Versailles in Miami Beach with a party of friends, the C. J. Millers motored up from Fort Lauderdale with eight in their group, Mrs. Hans Wriedt of Delray Beach had several guests, and Mrs. J. L. du Bois and Mrs. Edwin Lavins were down from neighboring Hobe Sound.

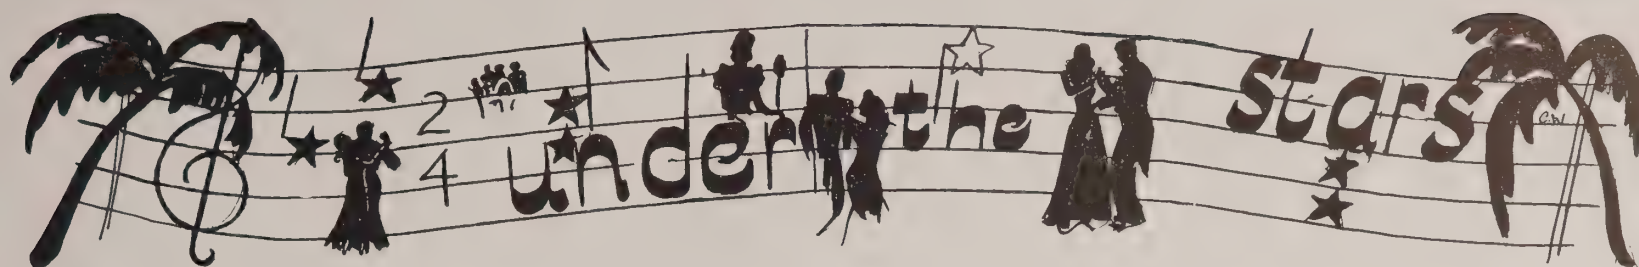

Mr. and Mrs. Chester J. La Roche, whose guests included Jerome Zerbe, the noted photographer; the Archibald C. Rayners, the Donald Woodwards, Mme. Jacques Stern, Andre Embiricos, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Chester Greer, who are recent additions to the villa colony, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Holmsen, who were with the Malcolm G. Chaces, Jr., and Kenneth McColl, the latter just back from Nassau, where he had been playing golf with the Duke of Windsor, were among those noted dining at the Chambord.

THE CHAMBORD

Palm Beach's noted French restaurant, showing the charming sunny sidewalk terrace which is the setting for many luncheon parties each day.

THE WORLD-FAMOUS PATIO is enjoying the patronage of a host of well known members of the resort colony and prominent members of the social set who find this favorite resort establishment an ideal spot for a most delicious dinner and gay supper parties, with dancing to the enchanting rhythms of Val Ernie's orchestra.

Entertainment offerings at the Patio have left nothing more to be desired in the way of the new and different, with Mlle. Rachel Carlay, popular French star, scoring a decided hit and Dr. Giovanni, the world's greatest pickpocket, returning for another engagement by popular demand.

A host of smart socialites thronged the Patio to capacity Wednesday evening to hear Mlle. Carlay.

Mr. Milton Holden was host to a gay party which included, Mr. and Mrs. John Mortimer Schiff, Miss Sandy Rice, Mrs. T. Philip Ammidown and Mr. Herbert Pulitzer.

Mr. Woolworth Donahue was present with Miss Lillian Moore, and Mr. Winston Guest, later being joined by Mr. Clemente Ballin.

Mr. Paul Bancroft was observed with Mrs. Dorothy Leary, Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mackintosh and Mr. Dana Clarke.

The Archduke Franz Josef of Austria and the Archduchess Princess Marta were at a dance floor table and in another twosome were Mrs. John Moffat and Mr. Rinaldo de Luza. Nearby were Mr. and Mrs. D. Dulany Hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril J. Norton were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Theodore D. Buhl, Mr. and Mrs. James Butler, Mr. Michael Frieburg and Mrs. Nathaniel Wheeler.

Count di Castagnola was host to Mrs. Joseph F. Moran, Mr. and Mrs. David Osborne, Mrs. Archibald McNeil, Mr. Robert Tracy and Mlle. Rachel Carlay.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Loder were on the dance floor as were Mr. C. B. Wrightman and Miss Marjorie Chapman, Mr. Phil Baker and Miss Peggy LeBaron, Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Townsend, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eichberg, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ragnitt, Mr. and Mrs. Van Lear Black, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Lorie.

Mr. Pierre S. duPont was host to a party of ten and Mr. Henry Ittleson and Mr. J. N. Wallace also entertained, as well as Mr. George Jessel.

Among others noted in various parties or on the dance floor were Mr. Louis G. Kaufman, Mr. James Forsman, Mr. Robert Hewitt, Mrs. John Moffat, Mr. David Baldwin, Mr. Jack McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. F. Schmidt, Mr. Woolworth Donahue, Mr. Robert McCormick, Mrs. Joseph Paterno, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cassity and Mr. W. L. Culbert, Mr. Jacob L. Webb and many more.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newhouse were with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rice were with Miss Beth Leary and Mr. J. Gilmore.

Others noted on the dance floor and in various parties included Mr. J. Williamson and Mr. J. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Zuver, Mr. Jesse Sharpe, Mr. George Jessel and Miss Schinasi, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Rice, Miss Marian Glass D'Enrico, Miss Edna Brokaw, Prince George Scherbatoff, Mr. Frank Quigley, Mr. Woolworth Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hall, Mrs. Jennie Kissam, Mr. Robert Wakeman, Mr. Joseph D. Bannon, Mr. Harry Kelton, Mrs. Joseph F. Moran, Mrs. Archibald McNeil, Miss Frances Kilkenney, Mr. Frank Hale, Count Castagnola, Mr. and Mrs. John Witman, Mr. Jerome Zerbe, Mr. Edward U. Roddy, Mr. Jack Bertel, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schur, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coleman, Mr. S. V. Stevens and many more.

Attracting the attention and admiration of many distinguished winter colonists this season is the new Dixie Inn which has literally leaped into prominence and is exceptionally popular as a smart restaurant of fine and delectable foods together with a wonderful assortment of rare and imported wines and liquors. Night after night it is thronged with gay and interesting visitors comprising large and small dinner parties, and it is no unusual occurrence for them to express their appreciation of the superbness of the cuisine and service to the management before departing.

One of the many interesting dinner parties held there recently was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Harris (Mr. Harris is the well known producer of many Broadway Musical Shows) in honor of Miss Luise Rainer, Hollywood's talented and celebrated dramatic actress and winner of the academy award for her excellent performance in "Good Earth." Others in the party included, Estelle and Leroy, famous dancing team, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stecker, Mr. and Mrs. I. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Herr, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bertel, Mrs. Lion Levy and Mr. Morgan Kaufman.

Another equally interesting party was that given by Mr. Irving Berlin, America's favorite song writer of popular and patriotic numbers, and Mrs. Berlin, who had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Mr. Ray Goetz, well known producer, and Mr. Jules Bache, prominent Palm Beachite.

International Set Continues To Enjoy Historic Nassau

INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY FROM TWO CONTINENTS continue to make the most of the many diversified settings offered by gay Nassau, with sparkling night-life and a plethora of daytime sports settings adding to the interest of a stay in the principal link in the coral chain of the Bahamas.

The world famous Jungle has been the setting for a number of attractive parties given by the colony's most prominent social luminaries, with the recent "Head-Dress Ball" the highlight of the season there.

Among the many colorful dinner parties given at the Jungle recently was Mr. Charles A. Munroe's party for a number of the island's socialites. Guests included Sir Frederick and Lady Williams-Taylor, Sir Harry and Lady Oakes, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Bogert, Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, Major Gray Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Gossler, Mrs. A. Buckhard, Captain and Mrs. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. James Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Killman, Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm, Mrs. T. Markoe Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Verney, Mr. Syndam-Cutting, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Captain and Mrs. Vyvian Drury, Mr. and Mrs. Bayne, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Boatwright, Mr. and Mrs. Hoving, Captain D'Arcy Rutherford.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Dresser, Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker, Mr. Frazier Jelke, Col. and Mrs. Frederick Wanklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Brice Pinder, Mr. Lartorius, Mr. Hickson, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Johnson, Mrs. Colville, Mrs. Ayer, Mrs. Frederick W. Watriss, Mr. C. Patterson, Mrs. Arthur Vernay, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Mrs. Egan, Mr. and Mrs. Crosby, Col. Scott, Miss Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, the Marquis de Vissdeliou, Mrs. C. Marling, Mr. Sidney Farrington, Mr. Beaver White, and Mr. and Mrs. Partridge.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Burke Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Love, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bemis and Mr. H. Harrison Procter formed an aerial pleasure fleet recently and cruised in their private planes to various of the Bahama Islands, making an extended stay at picturesque Spanish Cay.

They recently landed off primitive Andros Island and penetrated a considerable distance into the interior, returning with many interesting specimens of plant and animal life.

Many of the guests of the Fort Montagu Beach Hotel, which is under the direction of Mr. Newell Kelly this season, charter one of the fleet of fishing schooners that are anchored off historic Montagu Bay and cruise to far off fishing grounds. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Rickels, well known members of the social colony in Nassau, recently chartered Captain Russell's "Jouer" and cruised off Abaco for several days, returning with a prize catch of grouper, rockfish, amberjack, kingfish and several barracuda.

Cycling before breakfast is one of the popular pastimes in gay Nassau. Among the many devotees of this sport on a recent cycling tour were Miss Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, Miss Marian Oates, Dr. and Mrs. Norden, Miss Kay Sumner, Miss Jean Clark, Miss Natalie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Ernest Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Newell Kelly, Captain D'Arcy Rutherford and others.

Noted among the bronzed crowd of sun-worshippers recently on Montagu Beach were Mr. John F. McCarthy, Mr. Irving Chase, Mr. and Mrs. William Morrissey, Mrs. Leslie Peard, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Michaux, Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Brunt, Miss Bartling, Miss Marlene Judge, Miss Gladys Lowe, Miss Betty Boucher, and other popular members of the Fort Montagu contingent.

Cruising on a deluxe scale are the many owners of luxury yachts now in Nassau Harbor. Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson of Washington, D. C., who is in the harbor aboard the yacht Malolo, recently entertained a number of friends with a cruise to Treasure Island, George Barr McCutcheon's picturesque coral atoll. Mr. Malcolm McConnell of New York was host to a cruising party to Abaco recently aboard his yacht "Tropic Holiday."

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Wenne-Gren's beautiful yacht "Southern Cross" has been the background for a series of attractive parties, with many of the social colony in Nassau attending. Their yacht is the largest of its kind in the world.

Between the varicolored waters of the sea and the smart residential section atop the hills, where many of Nassau's international have built hill-top castles, the sunny fairways of the Bahamas Country Club are a continuity of scenic surprises. Lovely coral-toned lakes dot the course which is in a surpassingly beautiful setting.

Biltmore Hotel Art Gallery

ANOTHER RECENT ADDITION to the cultural life of Palm Beach which is fast becoming one of the important art centers of the country, is the Biltmore Hotel Art Gallery founded and directed by Alice Littig-Siems, famous sculptress, and whose first exhibition group includes the works of many local contemporaries as well as other notable painters, and is widely diversified in scope and nature. There are three one-man shows and several of the artists are represented by sufficient canvases to make almost complete shows. From the British-American Art Center in New York there are twelve Turners on exhibit to be sold for the benefit of British artists. These watercolor sketches have attracted innumerable connoisseurs to the galleries.

Very much in contrast are the three one-man shows. Edna Hibel, the youngest contemporary artist to have her work purchased by a museum for their permanent collection, has a one-man show. Her own original medium, that of working with oil on paper, gives a stamp of individualism to the many colorful examples of her work now on view at the Biltmore Hotel Gallery. Also on exhibit at her show is the interesting sculpture of Fernando Boada, well known Spanish sculptor of Havana whose carved Cuban mahogany work is expressive while his "Angel Reyes" is outstanding. Another one-man show arranged by Mrs. Middleton Manigault, is a memorial exhibition of the late artist's canvases, retrospective in nature, from 1913-1922. Unusual and lovely effects, some fantastic, others beautiful tapestry motifs, as well as a number of extremely well done still life studies, are among canvases of this modernist who was ahead of his time.

S. A. Jafnel's one-man exhibit is notable for its display of attractive and evenly-displayed color technique of landscapes and portraits, many of the former having Florida scenes for subjects. Another room is devoted to etchings and watercolors. Etchers James Swann, R. H. Palenske and Margaret Ames Gaug reveal excellent technical work in varied strata while Marie Blanke is showing some fine watercolors of floral still life.

Another of the seven rooms given over to the new gallery is hung with a choice group of portrait and landscape artists. One of the younger portrait painters, Edith Rosenow, whose canvases have created great interest in resort art circles, is represented with two portraits. One of Abigail Montgomery is a finely-textured study of a young girl in which Miss Rose now displays a talented brush for color technique and expression. Channing Hare, well known Palm Beach artist, is represented by several portraits in this gallery, among which are Kenneth Roberts, Booth Tarkington, which portray features and proportions with excellent technique. The artist's conception of a Gypsy Mother and Son displays a distinctly different form of portraiture. Also in this group is the work of Thomas M. Heaton whose portraits have a richness of color and personality reminiscent of an Old Master. Montford Coolidge's landscapes are modern in color use and substantial in outline and technique while Albert Herter's still life floral is a notable example of this artist's work. Portrait Painter Charles Baskerville has an outstanding study of Mrs. Edward Warburg, Paul Swan is represented by several works and Bradford Lambert's "Paderewski" is most striking.

Mrs. Alice Littig Siems, whose work is sculpture, has achieved international recognition through its spirit and actual perfection of craftsmanship, has on display a number of her pieces. A plaster model of Dr. Julius Stieglitz' bronze bust now at the University of Chicago is very impressive as are several children's heads, a plaster model of James Mullenbach, and a distinctive bas relief.

Representing the modern, individual style of Mrs. Frederick Johnson (Mary McKinnon) are canvases in still another room of the exhibit. Revealing her flair for color and character revelation are portraits of Mrs. John Charles Thomas and Mrs. Seymour Shonnard, while striking distinction is shown in her still life painting of honeysuckles. Other artists whose work has received much comment from many visitors to the show include William Van Dresser with portraits from life in charcoal and sanguine; Charles McKinley, nephew of the late President McKinley with water colors; Jean J. Pfister with floral still life studies and J. J. Hollenbeck's still life canvases; Paul Schick's lovely landscapes in oil; and Jean Dayton West with an understanding portrait of excellent tonal qualities.

"LAKE PATSQUARO"

painted by Edna Hibel who has a one-man show in the current exhibition at the Biltmore Hotel Art Gallery.

Miami Beach

A COLORFUL TROPIC SCENE is the Ocean Terrace these early spring days at the Pancoast, as colonists in fashionable resort attire promenade, sunbask, chat, dine and knit, knit, knit for war relief bundles . . . while visitors in cabanas and beach dugouts add to the picturesqueness of the setting.

The honorable Walter E. Edge of Ventnor, N. J., former United States Senator and Ambassador to France, and Mrs. Edge have joined the early spring colony at the Pancoast, as has the recently retired United States Senator Frederick Hale of Portland, Me.

Mrs. Baldwin Day Spilman of Elway Hall in Warrenton entertained with luncheon this week at the Pancoast Cabana Club for her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Chauncey Williams, her granddaughter, the titian haired Miss Anne Camden Barrett, also of Warrenton, and Count George du Manior, formerly of Paris, France. Miss Anne Camden Williams, daughter of the Chauncey Williams, a student in Graham Eckes School in Daytona, is passing a few days with the family at the Pancoast.

Mrs. John L. Kellogg, Jr., of Wilmette, Ill., gave a beach party and luncheon the other day at the Pancoast Cabana Club, complimenting Miss Virginia Munster, Miss Mary Lou Laird, Mr. Norman Roos and Mr. Norman Gort, all of Winnetka.

Bridge has its devotees in this resort. At the recent tournament at the Pancoast hotel prizes were awarded for high scores to Mrs. John Brehm, New York; Mrs. Albert T. Johnson, Forest Hills, New York; Mrs. Charles Speaks, West Newton, Mass.; Mrs. Mark Duff, New Bedford; Mr. and Mrs. S. DeWitt Clough, Glencoe; Mrs. George K. Scribner, Boonton, N. J.; Miss Jean Barringer, Waving Willows, Dayton; and Mr. Frank Hawkins, Atlanta.

Motor jaunting in the Southland are Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Carlton of St. Paul, who have arrived at the Pancoast for a stay. Later they will trek to New Orleans, and then wend their way homeward.

Winging from Havana after participating in the Mardi Gras Fiesta, Dr. and Mrs. Harley R. Varney of Kewanee, Ill., have arrived at the Pancoast for a stay.

Mrs. Hiram E. Decker, New Rochelle, is sojourning several weeks at the Pancoast. Mrs. Ruth P. Sheehan, who makes her home at the Waldorf, New York, is a guest at this resort hotel.

Intermittently cruising the Florida Keys to do some game fishing, and staying at the Pancoast hotel is the current pursuit of Mrs. Carroll Milam of Jacksonville. Mr. Milam joins her on week-ends. Their son, Carroll Milam, Jr., is visiting here with his mother for some time.

Mrs. John Duff, Jr., and son Peter, and sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Duff of New Bedford, are guests in this hotel. The Duff yacht, usually in Miami Beach waters at this season, probably will not join the local fleet this year.

Mrs. Thomas Crump of Pittsburgh, who is in Miami Beach as usual for the season, has been joined at the Pancoast by her talented daughter, Dr. Jean Crump of Philadelphia. Mrs. Crump's sister, Mrs. David Crump, Pittsburgh, is also in the family circle.

Among gay cabana parties was that given by Mrs. Valentine B. Holman and Miss Rosina McGonagle of Philadelphia at the Pancoast in compliment to Mrs. Salvatore A. Cotillo of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., widow of Judge Cotillo, former Supreme Court Justice of New York.

"Happy Birthday to You" was the theme of two dinner parties during the past few days with the J. H. Victors of Wilmette. First their son, George, celebrated the anniversary of his birthday, and then sub debutante daughter, Miss Elaine was toasted the following night. Both affairs were staged in the Mediterranean Room of the Pancoast. Elaine was adorable at her party, all decked out in a fitted-bodice full-skirted frock of white taffeta, decorated with a floral design. She carried a nosegay bouquet of sweetheart roses, circled with lace.

Mr. Richard Funkhouser, Dartmouth alumnus Class '41, who was on the staff of the Standard Oil Company in Baltimore last week, will be in Uncle Sam's defense army next week. He is at the Pancoast hotel for a few days to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer N. Funkhouser of Hagerstown, Md.

"Having a grand time" is the report of Lieut. I. Wistar Morris of Philadelphia, who is holidaying at the Pancoast during a leave of absence from Camp Shelly in Hattiesburg, Miss.

Mr. Joseph Beaumier of Bethel, Me., entertained recently for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ross of Boston, with a beach party and cabana luncheon at the Pancoast. Mr. and Mrs. Ross are colonists at Whitehall in Palm Beach.

With the scent of orange blossoms in the air, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Corwin Whitney of New York are relaxing at the Pancoast in Miami Beach after the nuptials of their son, Mr. Frederick Corwin Whitney, Jr., of Havana, Cuba, who was wedded to Miss Nancy Watson of Los Angeles on Saturday (March 1) in the First Presbyterian Church in Miami. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crisp P. Watson of Los Angeles, who with other relatives from California, New Mexico and other places were here for this wedding. The bridal couple will make their home in Havana.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Burgess of Los Angeles arrived by airplane from New York this week-end, and will be at the Pancoast in Miami Beach for several days before taking off in a Clipper Ship for an extended air tour of South America.

Mr. Wallace (Wally) Butterworth, of the Vox Pop radio program, and Mrs. Butterworth, Great Neck, N. Y., are sojourning at the Pancoast hotel after broadcasts in Mexico City, San Juan and Havana. They travelled by airplane.

Coral Gables

WITH THE FINALS OF THE 18TH ANNUAL International Professional Four-Ball Golf Tournament now a matter of history, life at the Miami Biltmore settles down to a normal pitch. Yet there is no letup in the gaiety of the colorful resort with dinner-dances and parties taking their place in the spotlight.

Members of the Miami Biltmore Country Club will hold their first formal dinner dance of the season on March 22, in the Giralda Room. The committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Emmett C. Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Moon, Mr. and Mrs. C. Berwind Harjes and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Lucchesi.

Mrs. R. B. Gautier, Jr., was winner of the recent women's round-robin tournament conducted by John and Arthur Hendrix, joint tennis professionals. Miss Rose Henniker-Heaton, daughter of Sir Herbert Henniker-Heaton, governor of the Falkland Islands, was runner-up. Among the women who took part in the matches were Mrs. Hervey Allen, Mrs. C. Berwind Harjes, Mrs. N. Parmalee Davies, Mrs. Walter Bayliss and Mrs. T. A. Lucchesi.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Murphy of Newton Center, Mass., were among those who gave dinners recently in the Giralda Room. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. James L. Miniter, Mr. and Mrs. John Lutz, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Ahern.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Joseph, New York, had Mr. and Mrs. David J. Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bernard Joseph and William J. Shroder. Guests of Wilfrid V. N. Powelson were the Misses Louise Powelson and Rose Alessi. Mr. and Mrs. Milton M. Chapman entertained at a dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Reynolds of Providence.

Bridge-luncheons continue to attract many card players and one of the largest recently was that given by Mrs. Harry Hayes Cleaveland, who entertained for twenty. Mrs. T. J. Smith of Cleveland, had Mrs. J. H. Simpson, Mrs. S. D. Knight and Mrs. W. A. C. Smith. Mrs. J. W. Shea of Corning, N. Y., entertained Mrs. William M. Webster,

Mrs. H. A. Pearson, Mrs. W. K. McElliott, Chicago; Mrs. J. W. Cluney, Darien, Conn., and Mrs. Edward Walsh, Peekskill, N. Y.

Recent arrivals here are Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. March, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Heimerdinger, James J. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Story and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mowbray, New York; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Owen and their daughter, Miss Jean Owen, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Dean R. Stone, Orange, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Eadie, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. John Rice, Jr., Easton, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. North, Haddonfield, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Maloney, Philadelphia, and Mrs. J. J. O'Keefe, Bronxville, N. Y.

Key West

FISHING IS ALWAYS VERY MUCH in the foreground at Key West, and lately Casa Marina anglers have been concentrating on Permit, one of the gamiest of light tackle testers. Mr. and Mrs. Bertram C. Hopeman of Waynesboro, Va., fishing from their private boat, the "Ailenroc," caught three recently, Mrs. Hopeman accounting for a 16¾ pounder, and Mr. Hopeman for a 17 and a 9½ pounder. The same day K. H. Woolson of Springfield, Vt., brought in a beauty weighing 17¾ pounds.

The following day, Dr. C. N. Carrier, of Santa Rita, New Mexico, secured a 17 pound Permit. Dr. Carrier was fishing from Mr. Hopeman's boat.

Col. Henry C. Barthman and his niece, Miss Marion Blaine, of New York, go out fishing every other day with Begley Filer, and last week they caught three sailfish, two to the Colonel and one to Miss Blaine. One of the Colonel's topped the Casa Marina record board at 50 pounds, measuring 7 feet. His other was a 44 pounder, which measured 6 feet 10½ inches. Miss Blaine's catch scaled at 42 pounds and measured 6 feet 10½ inches.

For sheer numbers, a Philadelphia trio provided the thrill of the week. John H. Packard, III, and his daughter, Mrs. C. Randolph Snowden, of Philadelphia, accompanied by Samuel J. Reeves, of Bryn Mawr, were the lucky trio, fishing with Jakey Key of the "Legion." Feigning disgust, Mr. Reeves announced to all and sundry awaiting the return of the boats that they had caught but two mackerel, which was correct, but he failed to mention the 139 kingfish that jammed the box, and covered the forward deck of the Legion. Frank A. Reid of New York City, who was accompanied by Mrs. Sue Case of Pittsburgh and Mrs. Mary B. Linkins of Washington, D. C., returned with the same story—both boxes crammed full. Dr. Charles A. Waters of Baltimore and Kent C. Darling of Richmond, Va., got tired of hauling them in.

Ignatio Carbonnel of Key West, paired with Miss Jane Peabody of Detroit, won the Mixed Doubles Tennis Tournament at the Casa Marina this week, defeating in the finals Alden Kimball of East Hampton, L. I., and Miss Eleanor Foster of Englewood, N. J., 6-3, 6-2.

There has been much entertaining at the Casa Marina lately—much of it, alas, being farewell parties. Mr. and Mrs. John C. Williams of Princeton, N. J., entertained for the John H. Packard, III's, of Philadelphia, who leave shortly after a month's visit. Among the guests were Mrs. George Gordon of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Foster of Naragansett, R. I.; Miss Eleanor Foster of Englewood, N. J.; Miss Katherine Ordway of Westport, Conn.; Mrs. Calvin Fentress, Jr., of Chicago; Miss Rita Bullitt, Miss Anna Ingersoll and Mr. and Mrs. C. Randolph Snowden of Philadelphia; Alexander Benson and Mr. and Mrs. Rene Leon of Princeton, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Duncan and Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Smiley, were joint hosts at a party in the patio attended by one hundred. They chose this method of wishing good luck and Godspeed to Lieut.-Comdr. and Mrs. Fort Callahan and Mrs. Bowman Cutter. Mr. and Mrs. Callahan leave shortly for the orient after spending three years at Key West.

FLYING THE SKYWAYS

VACATIONING IN MIAMI THIS WEEK is V. E. Chenea of New York, vice-president and general traffic manager of the world's largest air transport organization, the Pan American Airways System.

Mr. Chenea is well known in Miami, as he spent several years here during Pan American's early days in 1928 and following years when he was assisting in the organization and first operations of the young company. He has seen the system grow from the 90-mile line from Key West to Havana in 1927 to the present extensive international system of 69,000 miles of airways serving 53 countries and colonies, including all the southern Americas, Europe, Africa, Alaska, New Zealand and the orient. One of the latest extensions of a subsidiary in the system, which began its first operations here 12 years ago, is from Chung King in interior China to Rangoon, on India's southern shore.

Another new route of major importance extends from New York to Lisbon, Portugal, southward to Bolama, Africa, thence spans the South Atlantic, 3,100 miles nonstop, to Trinidad and on to Puerto Rico and New York—a great circle route of 11,000 miles touching four continents.

"Miami has always been our 'mother base'," said Mr. Chenea. "I remember when we had only 23 employes in Miami. Now there are over a thousand here and a total of 6,500 employes in the entire system, many of them natives of the countries in which they serve."

"With the addition of certain land plane operations planned for Miami, supplementing the active flying Clipper services, this city will continue to be Pan American's busiest base. With its present volume of 77,000 passengers a year cleared here, Miami is already one of the world's most important air gateways. It is the most vital port in the air links between the Americas which form a first line of commercial solidarity in the western hemisphere."

The tall, keen-eyed airways official mentioned that he is impressed particularly by this season's air traffic here. "The various Pan American routes spreading southward from Miami are now transporting a passenger volume approximately 16 per cent greater than during last season and last month was 85 per cent above the same period two years ago. Right now the international air traffic here is running well over 10,000 passengers per month. Tourist travel is very active not only to Havana and Nassau but also on the special Sunday Clipper to Jamaica and the Trans-Caribbean routes to the many points of interest which our tourists are just discovering on both the western and eastern coasts of South America. They are finding that the West Indies, Central and South America have as much scenic variety and as many tourist attractions as Europe had before the present blackout over there. Rio de Janeiro, for instance, is a gorgeous place, unequalled in the world from a tourist viewpoint, and it is now available from the United States in three days of easy travel, through Miami.

Miami has three round trips per week to Merida, Mexico, by way of Havana, on this major tourist route which in a morning's trip puts the traveler 'back a thousand years' among the famous ancient Maya temples of Chichen Itza.

"In order to handle promptly and efficiently the rapidly growing volume of passenger traffic at Miami, we are doubling the size of the downtown sales office at 300 East Flagler street, which is in charge of District Sales Manager Homer Lyon and a dozen trained traffic representatives.

"Another vital phase of international air transport through Miami is the actual trade carried on by air between the Americas. Shipments of merchandise by air express through Miami leaped by 14,000 last year to a total of more than 73,000 or 6,000 every month—an increase of 24 per cent. Also striking was the increase in total weight of these shipments carried to and from South America by the flying Clipper ships. The weight increase last year was 2 per cent over 1939. This year is starting off with similar increases, on top of those made in previous years. This air trade is making Miami an important distribution point in the middle of the Interamerican picture. This aerial freight includes an amazing and interesting variety of materials, from wrist watches and ladies' hose to automobile parts and mining machinery. Many shipments are samples of manufactured articles going south and natural products coming into the United States.

The Sun never sets on

It gives you a deep sense of satisfaction when you order a drink "made with Gilbey's Gin" to realize that at the very same minute other men who know fine liquors are sitting at far-away windows with that same familiar Gilbey's bottle beside them. For nearly a century now, the sun has never set on Gilbey's Gin . . . because millions of men have found, as you will, too, that Gilbey's makes a great drink greater!

Sparkling Program of Events Highlight Season at Everglades Club

EVER SINCE THE OPENING NIGHT at the Everglades Club, which found this famous social center opening its doors a week sooner than ever before in its history, Palm Beach's favorite gathering spot has remained at least a week ahead of the procession, with each week producing something new and intriguing in the way of surprise entertainment.

With the memory of Mr. Hugh Dillman's decorative and entertainment triumph at the "Back to the Farm Ball" and the royal grandeur of the "Rule Britannia Ball" fresh in the minds of the members and guests of the club, the popular guiding light of the Everglades Club is planning a supreme entertainment epic Saturday, March 22, that is expected to climax the social season in Palm Beach.

A "County Fair" as only the Everglades Club can stage it, will be the season's "piece de resistance," with elephants, camels, ponies, merry-go-rounds and all the popcorn and paraphernalia that delight the hearts of young and old alike already arranged for this occasion.

The club's famous "Children's Party" will again be staged in the afternoon of the twenty-second, with their elders having their innings later on in the evening.

There will be a ferris-wheel, dozens of carnival acts and even a wild animal presentation to highlight the Everglades Club's 1941 County Fair, with Mr. Dillman again utilizing his decorative genius to transform the interior of the club into an artistic version of the Big Tent.

Sawdust trails; the shrill cacophony of the calliope and the nasal notes of side show barkers will give the members of the club and their guests a nostalgic reminder of the circus and carnival days of their youth.

Once again the Central Patio will present a setting to arouse the envy of a Cecil B. DeMille or that master of the old time lavish grandeur of the screen, D. W. Griffith.

The memory of the setting created for the club's "Back to the Farm" will be indelibly imprinted on the minds of those who attended this outstanding evening for many years, judging from the remarks overheard among the crowd, who lined the fence at the Central Patio three deep during most of that evening.

Not the least of the Everglades Club sparkling entertainment evenings this season have been the famous Backgammon Tournaments, with the recent Championship Tourney attracting the attention of not only the resort's enthusiasts, but that of the international set throughout the nation.

Each week finds the resort's finest players entered in the tournament, with the list of participants at the Tuesday night games reading like an excerpt from the social register.

The Wednesday afternoon Tombola Luncheons and Style Shows have drawn from seven to nine hundred of the colony's socialites each week, with the club's lovely Orange Gardens and other interesting backgrounds teeming with life and color on these eventful afternoons. Palm Beachites have become accustomed to seeing smart Worth Avenue jammed with traffic from noon until the Fashion Show and Tombola have come to a conclusion.

Another milestone in the Everglades Club's co-operation with worthwhile humanitarian causes has just been passed with the World Premiere showing of "That Woman Hamilton," starring Vivian Leigh and Laurence Olivier, at the club on the night of March 17, for Greek War Relief. Several hundred of the colony's smart set attended this affair.

The National Committee on Greek Relief realized a handsome sum through the efforts of Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. Nicolas Embiricos, Mr. Andre Embiricos and other leading figures in the colony, and the generosity of the leading lights of the Everglades Club in turning over the entire facilities of the club to this committee for that night.

Of outstanding interest from an entertainment angle at the Everglades Club was the presentation of the world famous General Platoff, Don Cossack, Russian Male Chorus, who were enthusiastically received by an audience of several hundred at their recital in the Orange Gardens on the night of March 13th.

This brilliant aggregation of artists and their famous conductor Nicholas Kostrukoff presented a programme consisting of Russian folk songs and Cossack Tunes, as well as a series of Russia's intricate folk dances that had the members of this social center calling for many encores.

Society of the Four Arts

THE CURRENT EXHIBITION at the Society of the Four Arts features a one-man show of sculpture by Agnes Yarnall of Philadelphia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Yarnall, who has received much recognition in modern art circles for her individuality of expression which takes her away from the neo-classicism of many present day sculptors. In addition to models in bronze and plaster, Miss Yarnall has some excellently executed wood-carvings as well as plaster bas reliefs with unique motifs.

Miss Yarnall's training was begun at the Academy in Philadelphia, after which she studied under Boris Blai, a pupil of Rodin. Study under Alexander Archipenko and Paul Manship was also included in her preparation for her career, resulting in a technique of modelling uniquely diversified, reflecting only the creative tendencies of a courageous individualist.

In the one-man show now on view at the Four Arts, Miss Yarnall's work on unusual subjects and symbolistic themes is as outstanding as her portraiture groups. A plaster model of "Madonna and Peasant Woman" is a series of gentle curves, while in the "Head of An Old Woman" she achieves a rare subtlety of expression. In bronze is "Woman with Fruit," revealing her expert workmanship with the human torso. "Figure of a Man," a study in plaster, is powerfully contoured, embodying a firm touch. Extraordinarily executed with deep feeling is Miss Yarnall's "Dying Pan" in bronze. With this classical subject she has surpassed the grotesqueness of death with her beauty of execution. The "Head of Christ," in plaster, is an interpretive piece of sculpture, modeled with grace as well as force, while "Acceptance," in plaster, is one of the more outstanding examples of the artist's skill in conveying a mood as well as her modeling prowess in the art of anatomy.

Decorative pieces in bas relief form another part of the Agnes Yarnall one-man show. "Swans" is exquisitely detailed, while "Shell and Reeds," carved in white pine, one of four doors for a shell cabinet, is another striking example of intricate workmanship. Other motifs for the doors of a shell cabinet are "Jelly Fish and Rope," "Octopus." A magnificent eagle carved in white pine wins great admiration for a diversified talent.

Many famous people are represented in the portraiture group on exhibit. John Gielgud, fresh from theatrical triumph, is modelled as "Hamlet," a simple yet most effective bust. Edna St. Vincent Millay's bust is representative of the sculptress' modern, individualistic trends, her symbolic molding indicative of the noted poetess' "Renascence." The head of Mrs. Arthur Woods adheres more to neo-classicism than most of her portraiture, reflecting a simple sincerity and genuine feeling. The head of Roy Helton reveals the same unusual surface treatment found in that of Miss Millay, while that of Alexander Yarnall Jr. takes an entirely different mood and method into consideration. Doubtless the sculptress' great versatility in depiction of varied techniques goes a great deal towards making her exhibit one of unusual freshness and "different" motifs. With the head of Mrs. Alexander Biddle she achieves a sophisticated mood of modernity, distinctly unrelated to her portrait head of Lafayette in bronze of historical importance.

Vitality and technical finish dominate all of Agnes Yarnall's works which will be on view at the Four Arts Gallery through March 31. An Exhibition of Chinese Art, arranged by Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse, as well as an exhibit of water colors of the Florida Water Color Society, are other units of the current show, which opened with a preview-tea Friday, March 14.

AMONG the PALMS

THE CARNIVAL ATMOSPHERE at the "Gaiete Nouvelle Orleans" a Pink Party in old New Orleans, captivated the imagination of Whitehall visitors last Saturday evening. The lakeside of the Jardin Royal was transformed with the facade of an old French mansion with balconies hidden by jalousies and embellished with wrought iron grilled balconies. The trees were laden with Spanish moss to give the final Louisiana touch.

Pink paper magnolia lanterns made a canopy over the dance floor and white lace balls edged the pink taffeta curtains in the archways. A creole cuisine and entertainment typical of the French quarter in New Orleans furthered the illusion. The door prizes were Lenthier's fascinating new fragrance, "Pink Party." Miss Beverly Kirk, lovely and talented soprano, presented a program of songs of the deep South. She is appearing twice daily in a two weeks' engagement at Whitehall.

Other galas to be presented in the Whitehall series are: "Sands Point Ship Wreck Party," which was done at the Sands Point Club last season and was one of the big social successes of the season; "Louisiana Hayride," and "Copa-cabana Carnival."

Three of New York's prettiest and smartest mannequins modeled furs for formal evening wear designed by the foremost artists in the country for Leaf's, Whitehall furriers, at the "Evening in Ermine" fashion parade, Saturday evening, March 8, at the weekly dinner-dance at Whitehall.

Miss Kay Irvin, Leaf's own model, displayed a snowy white Russian Ermine in long classic lines with turn-back cuffs and unusual neck treatment.

Molyneux's designs for short boxy jackets, in white fox were shown by glamorous Nan Hathaway, chic, flattering and youthful styles for sub-tropical nights dancing under the stars.

A luxurious white moire caracul in one model for evening and another for daytime wear were shown by pretty Marian d'Errico.

In addition to the fashion parade, the floor show included "Sonny" Tufts, romantic tenor; the Callahan Sisters (Marion and Jane) in their unusual tap routines, and the suave rhythms of Niki Raymond, violin maestro.

The international contingent as usual is congregating at Whitehall for a late season visit. Prince Stanislas Bielski of New York recently arrived from the Lake Placid Club where he enjoyed the winter sports for several weeks. Before returning to New York, he is visiting Fritz Opal at 244 Arabian Road. Princess Bielski, his Cuban wife, joined him recently and they may take a cottage for a few weeks.

The Duchess Maria de Grammont of Paris and New York spent several days at Whitehall. Count George DuManoir of New York and Paris who has been passing the winter at Miami Beach was at Whitehall for a short visit with Palm Beach friends before returning to New York.

Lady Elizabeth Decies, who is at the hotel for the season, recently entertained at luncheon there for Mrs. George Washington Kananaugh and her daughter, Mrs. Leonora Warner

Mrs. Clara A. Lehmann of New York joined her son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst E. Lehmann at Whitehall.

Socially prominent visitors at Whitehall for the season are: Mrs. Leon Schinasi, Miss Bubbles Schinasi, Mr. Myron J. Granger, Mrs. H. McK. Twombly and Mrs. William A. M. Burden all of New York; Mrs. C. B. Hewes, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Rice and son of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Wetzel, Dr. William Bertalet and Henry Janssen all of Reading, Pa.; Baron and Baroness DeKerchove of Manhasset, L. I.; Mrs. Henry A. Goman and Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. McEnany of New York; William F. Harrington and Miss Ruth Harrington of Manchester, N. H.; Miss Virginia Penfield and Mrs. Eugene Ong of New York; Miss Virginia Kietz of Rye, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. George Doubleday, Greenwich, Conn.; Mrs. James B. Bell of Toledo, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Guggenheimer, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Gerard, Englewood, N. J.; and Mrs. Annie D. Frueauff, Denver, Colo., Miss Peggy Breed of New York City.

Mrs. O. M. Mitchell of Greenwich, Conn., Mrs. Blanche Alexander, Memphis; Mrs. F. F. Procter of New York.

In observance of St. Patrick's Day, season residents at the Palm Beach Biltmore gathered for an informal "Come Back to Erin" party Saturday night, March 15th, in the resort's Muleteer Grill where they were joined by a large group of Palm Beach visitors and colony members.

The high arched, medieval styled grill room was arrayed in fitting decorations of the "orange, the white and the green," Ireland's national colors and favors, prizes and entertainment features were in keeping with the spirit of St. Pat.

Special programs of songs were presented by Miss Ruth Landi, colorful continental songstress who is completing a second season's engagement at the Biltmore and Michael Harmon, whose stirring baritone voice is the perfect medium for the melancholy ballads of Irish folk lore.

Myrus, the Biltmore's ever popular mystic entertained the assemblage with another of his dramatic demonstrations of mind reading that have earned him fame in Palm Beach and many metropolitan centers. Dance music and accompaniments were by Paul Sparr and his orchestra and exhibitions of jigs and reels by the Arthur Murray dancers Jeanne Allen and George Montgomery.

The Cascades Lounge and Bar has been the scene of many parties this past week with every available table space occupied during the popular evening dance hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Smith were hosts there to Mr. and Mrs. Allen Northey Jones, New York. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Fisher, South Orange, N. J., entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Dear, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bigelow, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Foley, Mrs. Edward Pitcher and Judge George W. W. Porter. Among others who have given parties have been Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Cotter, Mr. and Mrs. George Scannell, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Andress, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Spohn, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Stamm, Mr. and Mrs.

Norman D. Forster, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Foley, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Worcester, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin F. Terrnan.

Another athletic club recently to conclude a visit at the Biltmore was the Anglers' division of the New York Athletic Club, headed by Lieut. Colonel Eugene McK. Froment, that met here March 7th to 14th. Events of the week included a day of sailfishing, an informal medal play tournament at the Palm Beach Country Club with prizes for low gross and low net and an over night trip to the Miami Biltmore for golf and the races. Among those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hellman, Harry Bailey, Henry Wilson, William A. Menzel, August Klein, J. A. Raffetto, Henry W. Robinson, Lawrence J. Durkin, John H. Dessing, Henry W. Ryan, Julien J. Soubrion, B. D. Hanish, Dr. B. H. Weeth and Dr. C. W. Munger.

Miss Lillian Louise Maxey, Scranton, Pa., who is attending school in Washington this term, is passing her spring vacation with her parents, Justice and Mrs. George W. Maxey, and her sister, Miss Dorothy Maxey, at the Biltmore.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Coley, Douglaston, L. I., are here with Mrs. Allen F. Kitchel, Jr., of New York. Mr. Sumner Blossom, editor of The American Magazine, and Mrs. Blossom, Babylon, L. I., are late arrivals in the colony as are also Judge and Mrs. Philip A. Brennen, Brooklyn, Mr. Alfred W. Donovan and daughter, Mrs. Doran Lyons, Quincy, Mass.; Mrs. D. J. Delano, New York; Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Latona, Lodi, N. J.; Mrs. Harrison Brand, Jr., Washington; Mr. and Mrs. George L. Anderson, Braintree, Mass., and the Rev. Frederick Hentz, Brooklyn.

Mr. Donald Crock, Greensburg, Pa., has joined his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crock, and his sister, Miss Bette Crock, for the remainder of the season.

Fashion Fads & Fancies

Fashion is more than spinach this Spring—it is lettuce, carrots, violets, salad greens, roses and tulips, among other things! In other words, the garden influence is among the most important in the new color chart!

Dark tailored suits or frocks enlivened by matching accessories—such as navy, deep gray or brown, accessorized with hat and gloves of salad green. Navy or deep bright blue accented with tones of violet; or the various hues and tints of rose!

Another important color influence is the Chinese—utilized both for entire costumes and as an accent. For instance, the lovely Chinese blues, yellows, pinks and greens, are ideal accents for black; especially for formal evening ensembles. For day wear, any of these beautiful shades are a grand color choice—most effective, according to present style dictum, when two or more of them are cleverly combined.

Subtle colors inspired by the deserts of the great southwest; such as sandy, dusty beige, stony and the like, are perfect background color tones—or, may be used effectively as accessories for bright or dark costumes.

Mexico is still in the style scene as an inspiration for gay colors—multi-colors as adapted from the serape; terra cotta; Mexican pottery hues and tints.

Red, white and blue, the popular patriotic trio and one of the smartest of the color mergers, has lost none of its prestige—in fact, it is becoming more and more popular, and is everywhere in the new Spring presentations.

Spring this year will definitely flaunt color as a fashion must! And, there are marvellous things that can be done in planning both costumes and accessories, to evolve interesting and unusual color themes.

Subtle pink spiderweb lace was chosen by Mrs. Ira Follett Warner for a recent dinner and dance gala at the Everglades Club. It was cleverly styled with a fitted bodice, fitted and flared skirt, and pink roses outlining the low décolletage.

Mrs. Nicholas Holmsen, noted dancing at the Patio, was very chic in a sleek black evening gown, topped with a poudre blue jacket lavishly bordered with an intricate design in gold, pearl and gaily tinted beads.

For shopping on Worth Avenue one recent sunny morning, Mrs. Jay J. O'Brien was wearing a bright yellow slacks suit, accented with a green and yellow scarf tucked in at the throat.

Dining at the Beach Club—Mrs. James P. Donahue, wearing a smart black lace dress, whose bodice was lined with deep medium blue.

Mrs. Nicolas Embiricos, dancing at the Everglades Club, was very lovely in white lace—topped with a navy jacket of silk jersey; whose outstanding style feature was the wide, deep cuff (almost to the elbow) of white lace.

A striking creation was chosen by Mrs. Mary K. Ellis for a recent Patio gala—white lace, the design outlined with silver threads. The fitted bodice further embellished with sequins—and the very bouffant skirt measuring about 15 yards around the hem. An Oriental head-dress and red brocaded burnos with jeweled fastenings completed the lovely picture.

The weekly Tombola - Luncheon - Fashion Show at the Everglades Club is among the most fashionable of the daytime gathering places here in the Colony! Noted at a recent Tuesday luncheon-show: Mrs. Wade Hampton Carpenter, in a white frock with fitted jacket of lemon yellow. Miss Claire Windsor, movie actress, wearing a dashing ensemble in several tones of violet—with matching turban trimmed with a huge bunch of violets. Mrs. Ellsworth Warner, looking very chic in a navy crepe frock, enlivened with a Persian print turban and matching sandals. Mrs. Hugh Dillman, wearing a smart luggage tan and white print, topped by a luggage coat and wide-brimmed hat of burnt straw. Miss Ann Mitchell in dusty rose and blue print with matching bolero. Lady Decies, wearing a black and white print and white rough straw chapeau. Mrs. Le Ray Berdeau in a white slacks suit with rose wool crocheted turban ornamented with a huge bunch of flowers in rose and violet tones. Her house guest, Mrs. Joseph Baur of Boston, wearing a white frock, deep green wool jacket and white hat with enormous green and white wing trim.

Pale blue, one of the season's most popular colors, was the choice of Mrs. Henry E. Candler for an evening at the Patio. Pale blue chiffon with matching jacket of sheer wool, embroidered in pearls.

Mrs. Earle Perry Charlton was gowned in a beautiful pastel pink chiffon with smartly fitted bodice and swirling skirt, for one of the Everglades Club dancing parties.

At the Everglades Club the same evening—Mrs. William Russell Huntley, in a white silk jersey creation; slim lines with flaring skirt and patriotic emblem embroidered on the front of the bodice.

The fifth annual amateur-pro golf tournament at the Seminole Golf Club brought out virtually the entire social colony—and an interesting pageant of sports fashions: Mrs. Margaret Emerson dressed in chola rose slacks suits, and Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., in yellow slacks topped with a medium blue sports blouse. Mrs. Ritchey Farrell in a stunning navy blue slacks suit. Miss Grace Amory in a white and red novelty print. Mrs. Woolworth Donahue, in a chic all-yellow ensemble—frock and full length coat of sheer wool. Mrs. Peter A. B. Widener in grey crepe accented with chamois yellow accessories. Mrs. Eric Loder in an Hawaiian print blouse, red slacks and fishnet turban—Miss Pamela Loder wore a smart medium blue one-piece frock.

Right—What could be a happier choice as a basic costume for your resort and summer wardrobe than a play suit that is cool, doesn't stretch out of shape or wrinkle!

Broomstick Skirts Sweep the Country! As American as the Aborigines who inspired them—these gay little calico skirts are booked to be the biggest "peasant" fashion of the year. The casual crinkled pleating which is their distinguished feature is borrowed from the native dress of the Apache Indian woman and is achieved by tying the skirt, when wet, around a broomstick and allowing it to dry. Worn here with a white voile blouse. Mary Lewis, New York City.

Right Bottom — Classically simple but new looking—a spectator all-day dress designed by Louise Barnes Gallagher. The brown and white stripes are wavy; the white stripes shade into gray and back into white, increasing the flowing effect of the lines, and giving an illusion of great slimness. The skirt is pleated all around below the hip length bodice line. The rolled back triangular "frame" hat of white felt, worn off the face, is designed by Jeanne Tete, from Bonwit Teller.

BOWKNOTS! Are back in the jewelry scheme of things—part of the Spring trend for femininity in the fashion picture! Greenleaf and Crosby have them in a number of interesting clip and pin interpretations—plain gold and bejeweled, large and small bowknots, old-fashioned versions and those of moderne design.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

SURPRISE UP THE SLEEVE! The sable-dyed kolin-sky cape which has the appearance of a jacket. A luxurious accompaniment to all-white evening gowns—which are so popular in the Palm Beach evening mode. Among the many lovely fur wraps at Leaf's.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

LADY HAMILTON! A copy of the cape worn in the movie of the same name—and at Angotti's. A romantic looking cape, fashioned of cloud blue Leda cloth; floor length, voluminous, and double-collared. A perfect wrap for your bouffant, fragile evening gowns.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

SCOOPED! Referring to the smart heels which feature the new sports shoes at the Palm Beach Bootery. Those made of multi-colored suede are grand accents for slacks suits of navy or other dark colors—or, all-white outfits.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

FAMOUS RING! Among the intriguing antiques at Le Passe Galleries is a ring which belonged to Mary Stuart—noted for her rare and extensive collection of jewels. The astounding likeness of the famous queen, which decorates the ring, is a carved ruby surrounded by diamonds and surmounted by a small crown.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

SHOCKING! The famous Schiaparelli shocking pink—in perfume, toilet water, soap; sachet; the alluring fragrance packed or tinted, in the lovely bright pink of this noted designer. Just one of the many perfumes available at the Everglades Pharmacy!

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

LINCOLN! There are three original paintings of Abraham Lincoln, by Franklin C. Courter, dated 1850; one is in the Mellon collection at Washington, D. C., another owned by Colonel Frank Knox, and the third is in the Felix Gouled Galleries. A wonderful painting of Lincoln and a different treatment of the well-known countenance!

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

TAFFETA FLANNEL! A material of very fine texture, made of wool and silk. Charvet et Fils make good looking sports shirts, with either long or short sleeves, and dressing gowns of this fabric. It comes in white and pastel tints, and novelty stripes combining white and the pastels.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

JEWELLED TOPS! Reich, importers, have an alluring collection of gold handbag tops, studded with jewels, and will make up an evening or afternoon bag especially for you.

Petit point in numerous interesting designs and color combinations may be chosen for the bag.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

RED SANDALS! Come Spring and every well-planned wardrobe will include at least one pair of red sandals. The South American influence! Frank Brothers have a smart array—for active and spectator sports, afternoon and formal versions for evening.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

BIRD OF PARADISE! White pique with bird of paradise print in gay colors, is the medium for clever play clothes for little girls and boys at the Miss L. Brogan Shop. Combined with solid white pique in cunning stylings.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

EXCLUSIVE PLAIDS! Imported materials in individualized plaids, stripes and solid colors, in good-looking sports shirts, as comfortable as they are smart. An extensive collection at Carnegie Ltd.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

SLOPING SHOULDERS! The important fashion news for Spring. A chic and youthful interpretation noted at the J. J. Jonas Shop is made of navy blue crepe, with subtle bright red trimming. Outlining the shoulder treatment and echoed in the wide leather belt!

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

TRANSPARENT! The smart place mats for luncheon and informal dinner tables, at Alta Carter's. They are made of a plastique composition, and available in a number of clever color schemes and designs—strawberries, acorns, initials, bamboo, etc. Harmonizing linen napkins to complete the picture!

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

CREATED FOR YOU! A special coiffure to harmonize with your personality—your features and your wardrobe! Preceded by one of the new permanents which is sprayed into the hair. Florence, in the Lido Pools Building!

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

SPRING POSIES: All of the gay-colored flowers imaginable—arranged in unique color themes and distinctive stylings. Also—new and unusual vases and bowls as a fitting background for the colorful Spring flowers. Seekins have an extensive collection of both!

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

DESIGNS FOR LIVING! Whether it is an apartment or villa, and whether you have a fondness for modern or period decorating, Worrell's can solve the problem for you.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS! Will find cameras and all of the paraphernalia necessary for making good pictures at the Camera Center, operated by Halsey and Griffith. Also—the new four-handed checkers and other exciting games!

Capes are much to the fore this season! The chic version above is fashioned of white caracul, with military shoulders, a tuxedo collar and slightly flared styling. It is from the smart collection of luxurious furs at Leaf's, Whitehall Salon.

Resort Fashions

Hats complement coiffures in this season's style dictum. A Maretta Feely creation for your summer wardrobe. Shown at right.

Apple Green denim—in a three-piece suit with a pork pie hat to match. The jacket is long and fitted, the little boy's shirt has short sleeves and comes in a lighter shade to blend. Perfect little town or travel suit for southern wear. Mary Lewis, New York City.

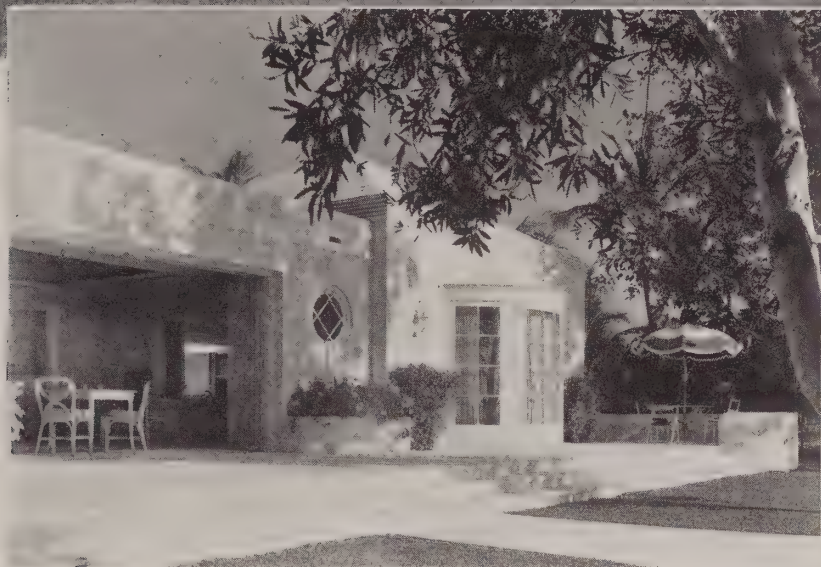

RENDEZVOUS—For spectator wear, cocktails, or the tea-dance. This smart one-piece frock of white crepe, accented with red taffeta, polka-dotted in white. The gay contrasting trim is effectively used for the collarless neckline, wide lacing and bow at one side. Note the graceful swing skirt and smartly fitted bodice! The small "bicycle" sailor and clever parasol, are made of the red and white dotted taffeta; the epitome in dashing accessories. From Mme. Mogabgab fashion presentation.

"The Pyghtle"

Palm Beach Home of
Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. vom Berge

Delightfully modern and dignified is this house near the inlet, executed by Henry K. Harding, architect.

Designed for outdoor living, the house itself has been so placed, as to afford a broad terraced vista across Lake Worth from the heart of the house, which is the roofed loggia shown above that completes the enclosure of an interior patio.

A most desirable feature of this loggia is its flexibility in order to meet all weather conditions without detriment to the view. This is accomplished by large areas of plate glass which slide from within the walls on both sides of the loggia.

Another outdoor living feature is the unique pool house completely equipped for all day sunning. It comprises a sunken loggia with dressing room and shower on either side. For intimate luncheon or supper parties it is equipped with charcoal stove and refrigeration.

RESIDENCE OF
Mr. and Mrs. Maurice G. Field

This is a one-story house spreading along the ridge, to take advantage of every breeze from the ocean. A walled garden flanks the entrance loggia and gives privacy to the central living room. Mr. Volk has placed the owner's bedrooms in the South wing and in the North wing are dining room, study and guest room. The servants' quarters are to the Northwest. Behind the living room is a broad veranda, from which the lawn slopes down to a grove of old trees.

Gulfstream, Florida

Rough textured brick walls make an excellent background for bay-windows at either side of the entrance door. A wide terrace runs along the east side of the house, and on the opposite side is a delightful patio screened by large trees from the view of passers-by. The placing of the bedrooms to one side of the living room with the dining room and service area on the other shows the architect's regard for comfort and livability. A long loggia links the house to the patio.

The entrance front of the Harris house sparkles in the sun. White walls, white shutters and white roofs set off the neo-classic ironwork and cornice.

THE PALM BEACH RESIDENCE OF Mr. and Mrs. Sam H. Harris

Here is a Regency house planned for a tropical climate. The central mass has a long balcony with a wrought iron railing, which shelters the entrance door painted dark green.

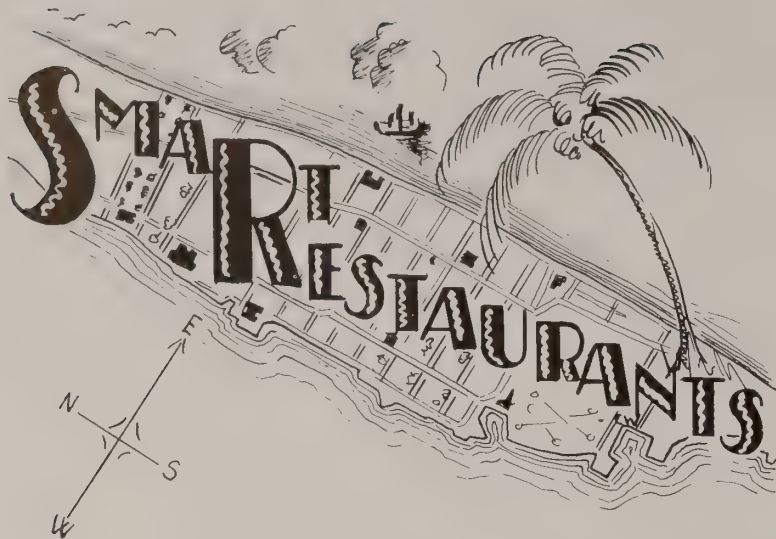

Clipped hedges behind flowering borders recall an English garden.

A marble floored gallery connects the living room and an informal sitting room used for cocktails and coffee. Beyond is the dining room and service wing. Upstairs are three bedrooms, reached by a circular marble stair. The house is so arranged that all rooms face toward Lake Worth.

Mrs. Harris has used strong Regency colors with a sure hand in her decoration. The living room has walls of hunter's green with a chintz of delphiniums, lemon yellow and white. The dining room is planned around a Winterhalter portrait in tones of cafe au lait and pink.

The bowled loggia looks across a wide lawn to Lake Worth. Delicate iron furniture contrasts with a highly polished terrazzo floor.

THE CHAMBORD, whose unexcelled cuisine and splendidly stocked cellar have made it a Mecca for gourmets, has been the scene of a large number of smart parties during the week. With the return of ideal Palm Beach weather, the Patio Vert and the Sidewalk Cafe have been filled with luncheon groups daily, while at night the baronial dining hall has been the setting for numerous gay and brilliant parties. Increasingly popular for cocktails in the afternoon and evening is the Chambord's lounge.

The Beachcomber Breakfasts, featuring games in the Patio Vert, have become an established part of resorters' Sunday programs and the Garden Luncheons, held on Friday in conjunction with the Palm Beach Garden Club's tour of estates for the benefit of British War Relief, have drawn colonists from this and nearby resorts.

On several evenings during the past week, the dining room at the South Ocean Club was filled to capacity, with the overflow crowd dining on the Ocean and Lake terraces. The outdoor grill on the Lake Terrace is an unusual attraction for those who enjoy steaks and chops broiled out of doors.

On the Ocean Terrace, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Chapple were hosts at a delightful luncheon for Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Thrall. Others who entertained at the club recently were Mr. and Mrs. J. Maurice Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Vanderpool Clark, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Thurber, Mrs. Oscar Godson Davies, Mrs. Arthur Hudson Marks, Mrs. Henry Pope, Mrs. Cady Jordan and Mr. John Krauss.

One has only to mention the name of the Dixie Inn these days to receive a laudation on the superbness of its food. For several weeks now this delightful inn has been catering to capacity gatherings of the Island's most prominent and famous visitors. Under the very able supervision of its genial proprietor, Mr. Jimmy North, it has gained an enviable reputation for its excellent and varied cuisine and perfectly appointed service.

Among the many distinguished guests who have entertained or been honored at the Dixie Inn this season was Major Edward Bowes, who was host at a small dinner party. Major Bowes' famous amateur radio programs over the Columbia Broadcasting System are known to millions of Americans, and he has been instrumental in starting numerous young American boys and girls on a successful career in the world of radio, screen and stage.

An interesting dinner party noted at the Dixie Inn recently was that of the Honorable and Mrs. John W. Kephart, who entertained for Miss Betty Schoomaker, Miss Henrietta Kephart and Mr. John W. Kephart, Jr.

The charm and gaiety that made the old pre-war Vienna a place of friendliness and conviviality has been recaptured at Mayerling, the unique Viennese restaurant in the Worth Avenue Arcade.

Mayerling, which is celebrating its first season in the resort, has found an appreciative clientele here. Gourmets delight in the menu which is refreshingly different. The delectable dishes prepared at this charming place are each served in its own, individual little earthenware pot. And goulasch is their specialty—not just one goulasch, but seven different kinds, all with the Mayerling's distinctive style of preparation and service.

THE FASHIONABLE PATIO continues to attract a host of members of the society set and delightfully gay gatherings of the winter colony who may be found nightly enjoying the dinner and supper dancing to Val Ernie's favorite society orchestra and attending the diverting gala nights which feature entertainers of renown.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Garbisch, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Coe were observed in a recent dinner party at a Patio gala.

Another group was that of Mrs. Dojean Lane, Mrs. Marguerite Creem, Mr. Albert Hoffman and Miss Frances Kilkenney.

Mrs. Harrison Williams was present with Mr. Clementin Alajalov, the noted illustrator, whose work has appeared many times on the cover of the New Yorker.

At a nearby table were Mr. Woolworth Donahue, Mrs. Nicolas Embiricos and Mr. Clemente Ballin.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Farrell, Mrs. Ritchey Farrell and Mr. Frank Cheek were also present.

Col. and Mrs. Harold Braman were at a dance floor table with Mr. Robert Sharp and Mr. Monroe Hess.

Mr. and Mrs. David Osborne were with Mrs. Joseph F. Moran, while nearby were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Buhl and Mr. Edward V. Quinn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamot duPont were hosts to a party that included Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas R. duPont, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre duPont, 3rd, and Mr. and Mrs. David Huston.

Mr. Robert Hewitt was present with Mr. and Mrs. John Moffat and Mr. Jerome Zerbe. One interesting group included Mr. Winston Guest, Mrs. T. Philip Ammidown, Mr. Woolworth Donahue, Mr. Tommy Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. George Kent, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Jr.

Mr. Pierre Barbey and Mrs. C. Henry Buhl were with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Salisbury and Mrs. Joseph F. Moran was noted with Mrs. Archibald McNeil, Mr. Jack McCarthy and Count Castagnola.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Berlin were with Mr. Jules Bache, Mr. George Jessel, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Goetz, and Mrs. Gilbert Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed Albee entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Todd and Mr. Edwin G. Lauder while nearby were Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hyland and Mr. Harvey Turnure.

The Archduke Franz Joseph and Archduchess, Princess Marta, were with a party of friends and at an adjoining table were Major and Mrs. Rudolph Lee and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Saucier.

Others dancing included Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sanford, Mr. Dana Clark and Mrs. Firmin Desloge, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Carroll, Mr. Peter Oates and Mrs. Irene Jonas, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ragnitt, Mr. Monroe Hess and Miss Peggy Knapp, Miss Peggy LeBaron and Mr. Charles Hughes.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rich were hosts to a party of friends and a group of the younger set included Mr. David G. Legget, Miss Joy Plummer and Mr. and Mrs. Bowen C. Tufts.

Society on Wings Making Nassau Air-minded Resort

NASSAU, CAPITAL CITY of the balmy Bahamas, is fast becoming a popular aerial rendezvous for privately owned planes, attracted doubtless by the proximity to the Florida resorts and by the sunny and favorable flying weather throughout the winter.

The hop from Miami or Palm Beach is made in an hour or so. It is only 180 miles, across the Gulf Stream, over the Cat Cay private resort and other green Bahama isles.

During the last few weeks a number of specially built models with sportsman pilots at the controls, have floated down to rest in the blue waters of the harbor near the Pan American Airways Clippers, bringing their owners and guests to the seasonal gaieties.

Charles Wrightsman, the well known poloist, flew his Grumann plane over from Palm Beach, with Mrs. Ritchey Farrell and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Townsend of New York as his guests.

Colonel R. R. McCormick of Chicago made a night landing in the harbor in his Grumann, spent a pleasant week-end in Nassau, then planed out for Port au Prince, Haiti.

A most interesting aerial vacation was that of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Love, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bemis and H. Harrison Proctor, all of Boston, who flew down from the frigid north in their own fleet of three Fairchild cabin planes. After a visit in Nassau they continued southward for a tour of Haiti, the West Indies and the Virgin Islands. Returning two weeks later, they explored the northern group of the Bahama Islands by air, stopping over the week-end at Spanish Key in a lodge owned by the Honorable Harold G. Christie of Nassau, before turning their sky cruisers back toward Boston again.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gimbel arrived in Nassau last week in their powerful, long-range seaplane—the one in which they circumnavigated the globe a little over a year ago, with Mrs. Gimbel acting as radio operator for her pilot husband.

Oakes Field, which has recently been greatly improved with new mile-long runways, has also attracted a number of owners of land planes. Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Vanderbilt were hosts to a party of friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Cutting of New York, Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, wife of the former Ambassador to Poland, and Philip Sears in their Lockheed monoplane, landing at Oakes Field in the middle of this little tropic isle.

Another gay party who spanned the seagreen gap between Florida and Nassau in a private land plane were J. K. Knox, Miss Betty Becker and E. H. Brayer, all of Buffalo, with Bob Wells and Marvin Nevils of Miami Beach.

With these and many other private planes dropping in, with the regular Pan American Clippers winging in and out of Nassau's airport twice daily, the planes of the Bahama Airways on their hops over the colorful waters to the other islands of the Bahaman group, and the weekly arrivals of the long distance airliners from Montreal via New York, this formerly sequestered isle in the blue Atlantic has become a most air-minded resort. Even the humblest of the dusky natives are now so accustomed to the flash of wings aloft in the blue that they hardly pause in their leisurely ways to roll their big eyes for a skyward look.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are as air-minded as the most ardent of Nassau's aerial jaunters, with at least one plane trip a week on schedule for the popular Governor of the Bahamas and his American wife. Exploratory flights over the varicolored waters that separate the fascinating islands of the Bahamas and trips in the line of duty, keep the Duke and his charming wife in the air many flying hours each week.

Another member of the social colony who takes aerial excursions in stride is the indefatigable Lady Jane Williams-Taylor, who thinks nothing of transporting the guests at her house parties to Havana, Mexico or San Salvador for aerial armadas of varying length.

Virile Jack McCarthy, the Bahamas' famous trader in islands, keeps a plane gassed up for a hurry-up trip with a prospect for a baronial island at all times, with several well known members of the international set recently added to the list of monarchs over their own little atoll; atolls that include their own private seaplane and landing ramp.

The popular managing director of famous Fort Montagu Beach Hotel, Newell Kelly, is another devotee of the air, not only arranging many flights for his air-minded guests, but managing to work in a few cruises of his own during the winter and spending days on end flying to many fascinating and remote spots in the Bahamas each summer.

MISS BRENDA DIANA DUFF FRAZIER

called by society commentators, "America's Number One Glamour Girl," disembarks from one of the Pan-American's Clippers with her mother, Mrs. Frederick W. Watriss, enroute to visit her grandparents, Sir Frederick and Lady Williams-Taylor, at "Star Acres" in Nassau.

"Yo-ho-ho and a Bottle of Rum"

CONVIVIAL AMERICA is becoming rum conscious—all over again. The "Nectar of the Tropics" is coming into its own once more and the lore and legend of its manufacture is a subject of fascinating interest.

"Yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum," the magic pirate chant from Stevenson's "Treasure Island" never fails today to conjure up pictures of swashbuckling marauders battling over fabulous wealth on palm-fringed tropic beaches; and the inevitable synonymous thought, Jamaica.

Who invented rum, when or where is confused in the Oxen often pull the carts laden with sugar cane for manufacture of Jamaica's rums.

mists of the years prior to 1672 when Jamaica passed a law regulating the process of rum making. If there is any truth to the legends regarding the fiery quality of rum in its earliest days the Jamaica governing body were wise to regulate its manufacture, if one considers the sad story of a negro, who brought a candle too near a jar of the spirit and was burned to death! The historian says, in the quaint language of that day: "but the rum being stirred by that motion (of the candle) flew out and got hold of the flame of the candle, and so set all on fire and burnt the poor negro to death, who was an excellent servant—this drink, tho it had the ill-hap to kill the negro, yet it had the virtue to cure many."

It seems that some of the distillers had been caught using "short cut" methods which injured the quality and reputation of the product to the point of producing a liquid of which it was said "would make a rabbit bite a bulldog."

Self-regulation by statute has been continued and strengthened through the intervening centuries. Today Jamaica rum must be made only by the perfected pot still process—the identical process invented at Nantes, France, by the distillers of fine brandies. The only contribution of modern science is the creation of definite and positive standards of excellence through the accurate control, selection and recording of materials used.

Otherwise the manufacturers adhere with almost fanatical devotion to the old, established methods that produced a rum of such distinctive bouquet and texture as to claim world-wide favor for over two hundred years. In no other section of the world have distillers been able to equal the particular flavor of Jamaica Rum. The reason given by Jamaicans is logical. It is simply, that the water, soil, minerals and sunshine of Jamaica produce a flavor that cannot be achieved without them. Just as you can only make Scotch whiskey in the Scottish Highlands, you can only make Jamaica rums in Jamaica.

The rum punch of the old days was a stimulant designed to combat the rigors of cold, but the modern rum punch, mixed according to the famous recipe "one of sour, two of sweet, three of strong and four of weak" is a drink to be enjoyed by the most discerning palates on the hottest day of summer or in the chill of a winter evening.

Rum Punch has been a tradition at Oxford University for years. As a connoisseur who was once at the great center of learning writes, "Sometimes pleasure, sometimes study would keep us out of bed and awake into the cold small hours of the morning. On such occasions no restoring matutinal nightcap could compare with hot milk and Rum brewed very strong . . . Thirty years ago Rum Punch was still honoured at Oxford. It was indispensable as a refreshment in the interval of the college smoking concert . . . Its effects were instantaneous in establishing the glorious sense of jollity which mellows so richly the pages of Pickwick."

The Jamaica rum served today in America's finest hotels and clubs is a mellow, golden spirit, aged and refined as carefully and skillfully as any French brandy or Scotch whiskey. But like its "ancestor" in the grog rations of American and British navies and armies, it also "induces good-fellowship . . ." in a manner and to a degree all its own.

The sugar cane sliding down the chute will come out as rum in this Jamaica factory.

New York Hotels

THE BAROQUE ROOM OF THE MADISON is one of the few cocktail and dining rooms left in New York, that reminds one of the dear departed days when there was not a war going on, and one could sit quietly over a sherry flip or a "Mousse au Chocolat," and not be faced with reminders of the modern age.

The Madison was built in 1924, during prohibition, and the Baroque Room was one large room. Mr. J. Rogers Kaufman designed the entire room in Italian Baroque style and therefore . . . its name. The ceilings are high and vaulted and entirely hand painted and the walls are panelled in walnut. The furnishings, such as chairs and curtains, all carry out the Baroque theme and are lush red color.

This Parisian-like Cafe is now the rendezvous of the elite, and for cocktails and after theatre, Collins Driggs, pianist, continues to delight with his own interpretations of the year's most popular songs. Mr. Driggs uses a Solovox attachment a great deal and the deeper strains of the organ seem to blend with the warmth and dignity of the panelled walls.

ONE FIFTH AVE.

Number One Bar. Downtown rendezvous of "Old New York" and Greenwich Village, offering continuous entertainment from dinner until closing. Diane Courtney, young songstress of radio fame and Clifford Newdahl, tenor, are featured entertainers. Bud Gregg and Bob Downey, the twin piano maestros, and Hazel Webster's musical interludes complete the program of intimate entertainment.

There is no cover charge or minimum at any time and dinner starts at $1.25. Special features are offered, such as "Tune Twister Contests" on Tuesdays, in which each person receives a card with numbers from one to eight on it; Bud and Bob play eight pieces and the person who has the most number of titles correct, wins. The winners to date have usually won with five or six correct titles.

"Challenge" is played on Wednesday nights, the idea of this game being that any guest may submit the name of a popular song of the last 20 years and if the maestros can't play it, they have to buy the guest a free drink, provided the guest can hum, sing or whistle the tune himself.

There are lucky number door prizes on Mondays and Candlelight Buffet suppers, with oldtime movies, on alternate Sunday nights.

Bill Duryea, ex-professional baseball player, is the genial host and manager. Bill worked for awhile in the movies, in which he describes himself as a "bad ham actor." He was manager of the "Little Club" in Shanghai in 1934 and has previously been connected with the following clubs in New York: Chez Marianne, Joe Smallwood's Le Mirage. Bill is married to Grace Patterson, a young and charming lady, who sings for her supper in one of the most famous of the Greenwich Village bistros.

Secrets of the Cyclax

I CAN ASSURE YOU its not just fogs, romps with "dahgs" (dogs to you) or hikes through the heather that produce a peaches and cream English complexion. I learned the true source of the radiant freshness, for which our English sisters are noted, from Lilian Mayle, director of the American Branch of Cyclax of London, for 47 years the favourite (the facial Turkish Bath) of British Royalty.

"The American woman is endowed with as good a natural skin as her English sisters, but she doesn't know how to wash," commented Miss Mayle when I met her in her charming and luxurious salon at 7 East 53rd St., where the Cyclax treatments are given in New York by a staff of English operators. "Despite her flare for make-up and acute cosmetic consciousness, she is not skin conscious, and doesn't know how to take care of it."

Dryness is the most frequent complaint of Americans. "The Cyclax treatment," explained Miss Mayle, "gives three essential benefits, stimulation, lubrication and cleanliness.

"To be properly washed, your skin should first be thoroughly massaged with rich cream, then shampooed. No cream should be allowed to clog the pores during the day as they should be free to carry off the acid impurities which, if trapped beneath the skin's surface, are a cause of dryness. For this reason Cyclax advocates surface make-up which will not penetrate the pores."

The face is first thoroughly cleansed with a lotion which (possesses soothing oils and yet) effectively removes even every trace of lipstick stain. Next an entire two ounce jar of massage cream, rich with essential oils, is placed on the face—the entire jar.

The charming English operator sits before one, instead of creeping up from behind as is customary in facial Americana, and massages your countenance with a small patented instrument, "lifting" jaw muscles, sagging mouth, eye corners, and brow. Quickness of movement and pressure are gauged according to the type and condition of the skin. This continues, ladies, for one solid hour.

At the end of this time your face is there, but the cream is virtually gone, the face is then thoroughly "sham-pooed," using a sponge and a lather of super-fatted soap. This is followed by a rinse with a bracing lotion in cold water which imparts that delicate look of freshness to a lass.

One's make-up should blend with and enhance the natural glow and should be on the surface to protect your complexion. For this reason you should use a liquid powder base and no cream rouge. When changing one's make-up cleansing lotion should be used for, like soap and water, this floats the soiled make-up off the surface and preserves a fine textured complexion. The result of this treatment is a thoroughly clean, healthy skin with an appearance of fragile transparency which does so much in giving us carefree self-assurance.

Trimmings frame the Picture

ASK any successful artist how important he considers the framing of his pictures.

He will probably tell you that the wrong frame can ruin the "mood" of a work, distort a carefully planned composition, break up the harmony of a color scheme. But that the right frame will "point up" the picture's good qualities, relate it appropriately to its surroundings, even, sometimes, give a mediocre picture character, importance, interest.

Such also is the relation of the trimming to a drapery or upholstery fabric. It can add the final accent of perfection to an already distinguished fabric; and it can save from mediocrity a material of little intrinsic worth. But the trimming (like the picture frame) must be created and blended by the hand of an artist, a master of the craft.

Scalamandre first began to design and make their own trimmings because of the limited variety and originality of trimmings then available through usual sources. In order to obtain trimmings suitable in quality, imagination and appropriateness, and to maintain exclusiveness in the fine fabrics they were creating, there was no choice but to create the trimmings as well.

Soon decorators, seeing how important trimmings could become when artistically handled, made increasing demands for new and unusual designs and for duplication of irreplaceable and worn period decorations. This demand has grown so that the production of trimmings, once a small though necessary part of Scalamandre Silks' business, has become a very large part of their activity.

Today there is a Scalamandre trimming for every type of drapery or upholstery fabric, or one can be especially designed. There is no longer any reason for trimmings to be the "step-child" of interior decoration.

The Sun never sets on

It gives you a deep sense of satisfaction when you order a drink "made with Gilbey's Gin" to realize that at the very same minute other men who know fine liquors are sitting at far-away windows with that same familiar Gilbey's bottle beside them. For nearly a century now, the sun has never set on Gilbey's Gin . . . because millions of men have found, as you will, too, that Gilbey's makes a great drink greater!
